Wickersham Scouts Idea Right of Jury Trial Is to Suffer Harm.

QUICK HEARINGS SEEN IF MEASURE PASSES

LINTHICUM CHOSEN HEAD OF WET BLOC

Beck Quits Race for Position and Maryland Man Has Clear Path.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

In the face of the administration's protests that the Federal Government will not take over any of the State prohibition enforcement functions, Chairman Wickersham, of the National Law Enforcement Commission, yesterday came to the defense of the commission's proposal to set up a system of Federal police courts to handle minor prohibition offenses.

It is this proposal which it is being freely predicted on Capitol Hill will never see the light of day.

The commission has been represented as intending to draw up a plan defining the respective duties of the Federal and State governments, but it becomes apparent that it wants this system of Federal police courts above all.

Wickersham Answers Foes.

Chairman Wickersham answered the attacks that have been made on the constitutionality of the proposal. Asserting that there "appeared to be in some quarters a misapprehension" of the proposal, he said:

"The commission did not propose to take from any defendant the right to trial by jury guaranteed to him by the United States Constitution, but as the Supreme Court has held, that right does not apply to those petty offenses which at common law and under the Constitution always have been triable by the court.

"The commission's proposal seeks to apply this distinction to a number of petty misdemeanors or petty offenses of a character which, under State legislation, always have been subject to prosecution on complaint or information and triable by a magistrate without a jury, and which by act of Congress may be made subject to like procedure in the Federal courts."

Speedy Trial More Likely.

This, the chairman said, would relieve the congested courts and insure the defendant a speedy trial.

Explaining that the plan proposed is to take the minor offender before a United States commissioner who would find him guilty or not guilty in the event he did not plead guilty, the commissioner then reporting to the court for passage of sentence—the offender in the meantime having three days in which to demand a jury trial—Mr. Wickershaf said the plan is "similar to the almost universal State practice before magistrates, except that in the State proceedings there may be conviction by the magistrate, with the right in the defendant then to appeal and have a jury trial in another court, whereas the commission's proposal is to adapt this State practice to the Federal Courts by securing a jury trial when demanded in the same court as that in which the hearing has been had before the commissioner.

Hard Struggle Forecast.

The indications are that Mr. Wickersham will have a hard time, notwithstanding that he has some notable jurists on his side, getting Congress to agree with him, particularly the Senate. One difference in the plan proposed by the commission and the procedure in many States is that in the case of the former the defender would not have a right to a jury trial until after he has been convicted. The most serious complaint heard to the plan, however, is that the district attorney will have a power of coercion in that in the event the offender demands a jury trial the district attorney may elect to proceed against him with a more serious charge.

The House judiciary committee, however, which has had such a plan as the commission proposes, sponsored by Representative R. Walton Moore, of Virginia, before it for three years, turned the matter over to a subcommittee for further study. The subcommittee is headed by Representative Christopherson, of South Dakota. At the same time the judiciary committee turned over to a subcommittee headed by Representative Dyer, of Missouri, the subject of a unified border control.

GREEN CUTS TERMS OF DRY LAW LIFERS

REVISED CODE APPLIES

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Gov. Fred W. Green today commuted the sentences of five Michigan violators of the prohibition law now serving life terms under the provisions of the State's former criminal code.

By this act the governor finally ushered into oblivion that clause of the Michigan criminal code which provided a mandatory life sentence for any prisoner guilty of four liquor law felonies, or whose fourth felony happened to be a violation of the liquor law. The sentences were cut to from seven and one-half to fifteen years, complying with an amendment to the code passed by the 1929 Legislature.

The five affected by the commutations are Fred Palm, of Lansing, who went up for life for possessing a pint of gin; Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, also of Lansing, who was sentenced to life for four liquor law violations; Tony Popish, of Manistique, who committed four offenses against the prohibition law; Alonzo Noyes, of Ionia, and Fred Baker, of Muskegon. Mrs. Miller and Popish are the only prisoners whose life sentences were based solely on liquor law violations, the other three having been convicted of various felonies.

In announcing the commutations, Gov. Green said, "It was not the intention of the drafters of the criminal code that violations of the liquor law should bring a life sentence."

Under the revised criminal code the life sentence for fourth offenders will only be applied when the fourth of-

East River Ships Crash; Seven Coal Barges Sink

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Police headquarters tonight received a report that seven coal barges had been sunk in a collision in the East River between the freighter Exbrook of America and the tugboat John G. Olsen, which had been towing the barges.

Two men were reported thrown overboard by the force of the collision but were believed to have been saved by the tug. The Exbrook kept going after the accident and her captain notified police she would anchor off Staten Island.

$400,000,000 SPENT IN ITS ENFORCEMENT

FATE DECLARED STILL IN HANDS OF FUTURE

On Anniversary, Measure Has Become Major Political Issue.

The tenth birthday of national prohibition is being observed today, with the entire nation mindful of the fact that it has become the major problem confronting the Government.

It has just a decade ago, January 16, 1920, that the dry law was proclaimed effective throughout the United States.

Technical and legal aridness in this 10-year period has been achieved at a cost to the Federal Government of more than $400,000,000 and has witnessed the annual cost, including all phases of enforcement, mount to $50,000,000 a year. During this period the Government also suffered the loss of internal revenue receipts conservatively estimated at well over $3,000,000,000.

200 Killed in Enforcement.

More important, it has witnessed the laying down on the altar of Federal enforcement at least 200 lives. It has seen the arrest of more than 550,000 perple by Federal agents, with 230,000 of this number sent to prison for sentences aggregating well over 33,000 years.

In addition, the 10-year period has seen death from alcoholism climb to a total of 34,000 and take rank with typhoid fever and railroad accidents as a cause of human deaths.

To this must be added untold millions spent by State and local governments in enforcing the law and the untold hundreds killed in its enforcement, as well as the untold thousands jailed and fined for violating the Constitutional mandate.

No Federal Spokesman.

In the face of this situation, prohibition enters a second decade without a spokesman for Uncle Sam to say what can ultimately be done with this unruly ward, left on his doorsteps by an amendment to the Constitution.

The commissioner of prohibition told Congress that it would cost $300,000,000 a year to enforce the law strictly, and then within the last few days turned and informed the legislative branch of the Government that it would be unwise to appropriate more than $15,000,00 a year at present. His reason is that the courts are too congested to deal with additional cases.

House Leaders Guests At White House Dinner

(Associated Press.)

A dozen or more House leaders were invited to dinner at the White House last night. With Speaker Longworth and Representative Tilson, the Republican floor leader, heading the list of guests, the President had around his dinner table the chairmen of virtually all the other important house committees. The House leaders brought their wives with them.

$1,786,737 SET AS CHEST GOAL FOR CAMPAIGN

REPORT IS APPROVED BY TRUSTEES BOARD

EXPENSES SLASHED AGAIN BY LEADERS

Judge Cobb Named Chairman of Special Gifts Group of Colored Citizens.

Fixing the goal of the 1930 Community Chest campaign at $1,786,737.07, Corcoran Thom, chairman of the Budget Committee, submitted recommendations of his committee at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Community Chest held yesterday afternoon at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Building. Mr. Thom's report set forth in detail the amount granted each organization and the report was unanimously approved.

In explaining the necessity for more money to meet the 1930 needs of the Chest's organizations, Mr. Thom pointed out that 75 appeals are combined in one this year instead of 57 appeals of last year.

Nineteen appeals have been added to last year's list, while one organization has withdrawn from membership, showing an increase of almost 33 per cent in the number of organizations. These new member organizations include Garfield Hospital, Bureau of Rehabilitation, Hebrew Free Loan Society, Holiday House, Mother Child Center, National Capital Civic Fund (10 civic guarantees and recreational deficits combined in one), St. Anna's Home for Aged Colored Women, Starmong Aid for Consumptives, Stoddard Baptist Old Folks Home, Washington Institute for Mental Hygiene and Washington Welfare Association.

Cash Balance Expended.

Mr. Thom's report showed further that cash balances which were in the possession of several member organizations in 1929, amounting to over $50,000, have been exhausted, making this much additional to raise for these organizations in 1930. He showed further that the growth of the city with indications of continued growth called for larger gifts.

The Washington Home for Foundlings and the Children's Country Home have erected new buildings which will give greater service and more adequate aid, but will require larger contributions than in 1929, while the Jewish Welfare Federation and Social Hygiene Society did not begin their programs of service until 1929 was well under way and will need more money this year. The Christ Child Society's convalescent farm and Children's Country Home have changed from part time fresh air work to year around convalescent work.

Mr. Thom's report also stressed the need of still better service in Washington, stating that great as was the improvement of service of the member organizations made possible in 1929 by the Community Chest, still further improvements are necessary in order to bring this service to the high state worthy of the Nation's Capital.

Associated Charities Lead.

The Associated Charities leads with the largest budget allowed any member organization, the committee allowing it $119,392.92.

True to its promise to practice the utmost economy in the raising and disbursements of these funds, the Community Chest expense for the campaign, collection of pledges, disbursement of funds, improvement of methods of member agencies and other similar work has been cut from the 6 per cent which it cost in 1929 to 5½ per cent in 1930.

This compares with the former cost of from 15 to 25 per cent for raising funds under the old plan of separate appeals.

Judge Cobb to Assist.

Judge James A. Cobb has been named chairman of a special gifts committee of colored citizens in the 1930 Community Chest campaign, Dr. Kelly Miller, chairman of region 5, Metropolitan Unit, which includes the entire colored population of Washington, announced yesterday. Judge Cobb and his committee are charged with the solicitation of gifts of $100 and more among the colored residents of Washington.

At a dinner meeting held at the Phyllis Wheatley Y. W. C. A., Dr. Miller pointed out to the committee the need for an increased number of gifts this year, due to there being 75 member organizations in the chest as compared to 57 last year. He also spoke

COLLEGE GROUP WILL CONSIDER CARNEGIE DATA

Association Approval of Athletic Report to Be Asked Today.

COMMISSION DRAFTS PROPOSED MEASURE

INSTITUTIONS URGED TO STUDY OWN CASES

Development of Teachers Is Discussed by Miami University Head.

Indorsement of the Carnegie report, which focused attention on detrimental excesses and abuses" in the subsidy of athletics by colleges, will be asked of the Association of American Colleges at its final session today in the Willard Hotel.

The Commission on College Athletics of the association last night drafted a report for submission to the parent body, which describes the sensational Carnegie report as giving "authoritative facts" regarding the subsidy and emphasis placed on athletics in the colleges.

In its recommendations the commission agreed that the Carnegie expose dealt only "moderately" with the situation and that it gives only a conservative view of the state of college athletics.

Three Questions Put.

While the commission is purely observatory and not endowed with any disciplinary functions, it declares that the Carnegie report has placed before the colleges three questions: Whether the college athletics should be on an amateur basis, Whether they shall represent wholesome sport between colleges, or Whether they shall be subsidized and semiprofessional.

Further, the commission urges each college to make a thorough survey of its own athletic conditions, in the light of the Carnegie report. It further suggests that institutions in the association emphasize intellectual and cultural aims as being of first importance in the solution of all college problems.

The commission also asks the transmission of this general indorsement toward better athletics to all standardizing agencies and athletic conferences.

Prolonged Conference Held.

Bert E. Young, of Indiana University, chairman; the Rev. Joseph Reiner, of Loyola University, Chicago, and Harry M. Gage, of Coe College, Iowa, who comprise the commission, last night held a prolonged conference in the Willard Hotel, during which the recommendations were drafted.

Since the Carnegie report placed relatively few colleges in the "lily white" class so far as abuses were concerned, Chairman Young anticipates a debate on the floor today before the suggestions are adopted.

Many of the larger universities and colleges in the country are affiliated with the association, which has a membership of nearly 400 institutions.

Stronger Report Last Year.

At the convention in Chattanooga, Tenn., last year a report, stronger in tone than that to be submitted today, was rendered by the commission. It precipitated a lively debate on the floor, and Chairman Young is anticipating similar opposition.

Improvement of college teaching is a cooperative task involving both the graduate schools that qualify them for an appointment and the colleges where they develop in service, declared Dr. A. H. Upham, president of Miami University, in an address last night before a general meeting of the association.

Dr. Upham was discussing the topic of teacher development and was presenting the view of the undergraduate college. "College teachers," he said, "depend for success considerably on the knowledge of sound methods of teaching acquired by training and directed practice or by actual experience."

Catholic Colleges' Status Told.

The Rev. Dr. George Johnson, of Catholic University, related to the representatives of the 400 colleges in the association the present status of Catholic college education in this country.

He averred that the aim of the Catholic college is to produce "that intelligence and character in the student which wil lenable him to lead his life in conformity with the principles exemplified by Christ." The college, he said, is one of the instrumentalities used by the church in the prosecution of her mission to mankind.

Religious, he avowed, is not treated as an isolated branch of the curriculum, but is the very heart of the program. The Catholic college does

French Parley View Based on Own Needs

Officials Believe Parity Issue With Italy Is Adjustable.

Paris, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—France's policy in the forthcoming Naval Conference, it was learned in authoritative quarters today, will be based upon a determination to maintain fleets commensurate with her needs at home and abroad and at the same time to insist on naval strength which properly expresses her importance as a world power.

The correspondent for the Associated Press, after consulting the highest personalities in the government who will represent France at London, learned that France is determined to show that she is not a secondary, but primal power.

Georges Leygues, minister of the navy, is understood to feel that a total tonnage of about 800,000 is necessary for the protection of France proper and the French colonies which are greater than Europe in extent. He has shown impatience with those who take France's existing total tonnage of 600,000 as a national expression of France's need. He has emphasized that 100,000 tons will be

INTERVIEW SHOWS BRITISH SEA POLICY

Armaments Must Bear Relation to Risk of War, Claim.

BRIDGEMAN VOICES CRITICISM OF SLASH

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Jan. 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—What seemed an unoffical opening of the five-power naval conference took place today in the great state room of the British foreign office when Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald received the world press there, for among the 300 newspapermen present, besides the British, were strong contingents from the United States, France, Italy and Japan.

That Great Britain will ultimately abolish battleships by international agreement was the pledge made by Mr. MacDonald on behalf of Great Britain. If complete abolition of this type of fighting craft can not be agreed to at the coming conference, the prime minister said, the British delegation will press for delay in battleship replacement and for reduction in the number and caliber of their guns.

The premier declared his belief that an agreement will result from the conference without sacrificing national securities and will be incorporated in a treaty which will prevent naval building races for another decade.

Press Discussion Is Unique.

Never before had a British premier discussed such a subject with the press of other nations as well as of his own before the beginning of negotiations, although there is one precedent for today in Lloyd George's speech to the world press at the Genoa conference.

The prime minister permits the fact of a conference with him to be published, but has interdicted any direct quotations of what he said or publication of questions addressed to him or his answers. Nevertheless, it is now possible to indicate authoritatively the British policy at the coming conference, a subject on which silence has been maintained since Mr. MacDonald's return from America.

The government here is most anxious that the peoples of the five nations represented at the conference should not be too optimistic. The difficulties are enormous and too much must not be erpected. It is felt that what may be a good settlement will greatly disappoint the public if impossibilities are anticipated. This is not the actual views of the government here, that in some cases will be put forward by British delegates, but compromises which have some chance of being accepted by other powers, since it is felt that too drastic suggestions would wreck all hope of agreement.

War Threat Held Remote.

Great Britain believes that postwar international agreements culminating in the Kellogg pact have created at least temporary security, for it is agreed by experts that for an unstated period of years, perhaps ten, there can be no great war, and British policy holds that armaments must bear some relation to risks of war in the immediate future.

The dangerous tendencies shown in the past seven years for naval expansion must be checked or for another period intense competition be faced, with all its attendant expense, in the British government's view, but Great Britain will not make any agreement that does not

DALE-LEHLBACH BILL REPORTED FAVORED

House Hearing Indicates Retirement Measure Is Sure to Pass.

LATER CHANGES HINTED

A favorable report on the Dale-Lehlbach retirement bill seemed certain yesterday after a hearing on that measure before the House civil service committee. That the House will pass it seemed equally certain.

The score or more representatives of Federal employes who testified at the hearing agreed that, while the bill might be improved, it would be best to pass it as it stands and try to amend it and improve it later.

Chairman Lehlbach promised that he would embody certain suggested amendments in a separate bill and try to have it passed after the pending bill is out of the way.

As now written, the Dale-Lehlbach bill liberalizes the present retirement law as follows: It increases the maximum retirement annuity from $1,000 to $1,200; it makes retirement optional after 30 years' service at an age two years lower than at present.

Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, was one of those who agreed that it would be best not to endanger passage of the bill at this time by insisting on amendments.

Mr. Steward's organization is in favor of making retirement optional at 60 after 30 years' service; extending retirement to all per diem employes, and also to employes of the Soldier's Home and to others who do not now enjoy retirement benefits.

Robert H. Alcorn, chairman of the joint conference on retirement, which represents 250,000 Federal employes, agreed with Mr. Steward that, while there might be room for improvement, it would be best to stand behind the Dale-Lehlbach bill as it is now written.

Joseph E. Evans, president of the City Employes Association, the first

RAIN FAILS TO MAR POLLARD INAUGURAL

REFORMS ARE OUTLINED

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 15.—John Garland Pollard, of Williamsburg, stood in rain this afternoon, took the oath of office of Governor of Virginia, and then, forced indoors by the downpour, delivered his inauguration address, in which he called on State officials to join in strict law observance and stressed the need of election-law reforms and better educational facilities.

Gov. Pollard paid high tribute to his predecessor, Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, and said: "I can not take his place; I can only follow him." He then pledged himself to make permanent the reforms instituted by Gov. Byrd and to advocate other measures that, because of the shortness of his term, he could not see through.

Gov. Pollard said he was not overproud of his position, knowing he was elected only because, under the constitution, the people could not have reelected Gov. Byrd.

While chief among his recommendations were that a commission be named to study the election laws of the State and that a compulsory primary law for both parties be passed to lessen the temptation of Republicans to enter Democratic primaries, he touched on practically every phase of government.

He recommended a $300,000 cut in taxes to affect the lower-income taxes, a commission to study the county government plan with an eye to efficiency and economy in government, a school equalization fund, a mothers' aid plan and an up-to-date plan for sea-food administration. A special message, he said, would be delivered on proposed sea-food legislation and

Critically injured in a fall from a horse, Mrs. Gwendolyn Cafritz, pretty young wife of Morris Cafritz, prominent real estate operator, had been unconscious fifteen hours at last midnight in Emergency Hospital, while physicians waged a battle to save her life.

Mrs. Cafritz was injured shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning when her horse lost its footing on the slippery cobblestone street at Thirteenth and B streets northwest and she was thrown headlong.

The accident occurred a few moments after Mrs. Cafritz's horse had been saddled at the Potomac Riding Club, 1204 Ohio avenue northwest, and she was riding from the stables for her customary morning jaunt through Potomac Park.

Picked up by Henry D. Rappe, a passing motorist, of 1227 Lawrence street northeast, Mrs. Cafritz was hurried to the hospital. The young woman suffered lacerations of the face, a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

She was given preliminary treatment by Dr. Leonard McCarthy, of the hospital staff, and her brother-in-law, Dr. Edward Cafritz, and Dr. John Shugrue, prominent brain specialist, were called in on the case.

Mr. and Mrs. Cafritz were married last July at the Mayflower Hotel. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Laszio Detre, of Budapest, Hungary. Mr. and Mrs. Cafritz reside at the Ambassador Hotel, Fourteenth and K streets northwest.

Southern California Stirs Under Rolling Earthquake

Temporary Disruption of Telephone Service Only Damage Reported From Widespread Shocks; Los Angeles Buildings Quiver.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Southern California, from the Mojave Desert on the north to San Diego on the south, and from the Pacific Ocean as far inland as Indio and Niland in Coachella Valley, was shaken by brief earthquake shocks at 4:25 and 4:35 p. m. today.

No damage other than a few broken dishes and bric-a-brac and temporary disruption of telephone service in spots was reported. Communications generally and public utility services were not affected.

The shocks varied in intensity over the affected district and in the vicinity of Los Angeles and south, the earth movement was of a distinct rolling nature, while in the northern mountainous sections the shocks took on sharper, more jolting characteristics.

The shocks, moving with a rolling motion rather than the sharp jolt often characteristics of earth movements, was felt strongly in Pasadena and in the hills of Altadena.

At the California Institute of Technology Dr. Harry L. Wood, seismologist, said there were no indications that the quake was of unusual intensity. The seimograph at the institute is a photographic instrument, which tonight is sealed. Dr. Wood said reports did not indicate the quake to be serious enough to warrant dismantling the seismograph at this time.

In Los Angeles buildings were rocked perceptibly in a gentle, rolling involve concessions by other powers or that does not settle the relative strength of naval powers upon considerations of their geographical position, their food imports and their exports of industrial products.

Great stress was laid on the fact that agreement depends upon other powers. There will be no disarmament here to set the example to others. All that can be done in that respect has been done and Great Britain can only disarm on condition that other powers move in step with her.

High Seas Agreement Sought.

A high seas agreement, in the British view, may be achieved, and then this, in turn, may require modification because of the Mediterranean situation, and if agreement is reached regarding that closed sea, these new proposals will have to be reconsidered to see if they meet the requirements of open seas navies.

There will be no discussion of the freedom of the sea issue, sea law or any other issues outside technical armament questions, if Great Britain can prevent it.

This conference is regarded as an effort to pave the way for settlement of the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission's work at Geneva so that commission can report to the league assembly and the assembly call a world disarmament conference of which the hoped-for London agreement is part and parcel so far as Great Britain is concerned.

Concession to French Seen.

This concession is made to the French standpoint. However, the government spokesman added, that is hoped, contrary to the French contention, to make the agreement in London immediately operative and that if a later world conference necessitates changes in the naval pact that can be dealt with when the time comes.

These perhaps rather vague statements of principle are as important as the technical information which was gained later, for they seem to show the government here in a mood of anxiety rather than of confidence and as most anxious to check any oversanguine tendencies.

An agreement, even if reached, it was learned, can only be for six years or so when another conference will have to meet to reconsider the situation.

Battleship Abolition Is Aim.

Great Britain would like to abolish battleships altogether because of their expense and their deficiencies against air and submarine attack, although on the latter it was admitted expert opinion here differs. Should that prove impossible at once, the British will press for extension of the replacement period so that no new battleships can be commenced until in five or six years a new naval conference meets, and when replacement begins, Great Britain will press for a very large reduction in the size and in the caliber of guns. Figures were mentioned, but not for quotation.

When replacement of battleships now afloat takes place, the extent of the reduction in their tonnage which Great Britain is understood to favor is unofficially reported here to be 10,000 tons. The Washington arms conference set 35,000 tons as the limit of battleships. Those that replace the present dreadnaughts would not be larger than 25,000 tons if the reduction Great Britain is reputed to favor was agreed to by the other powers.

The reported reduction in the size of guns which Whitehall is understood to favor is from 16 inches to 12, although no official verification of these figures is obtainable from any government spokesmen.

Tonnage Distribution Problem.

The difficulty in the cruiser question, as the government sees it, is in the distribution of tonnage. Not only the amount of tons allocated to each nation but also the purpose for which the tons are to be used must be considered and solved.

The Government will press for the reduction of the number of submarines to a minimum, and Great Britain regards equilibrium on a satisfactory basis in submarines as a very important point to come before the conference.

The destroyer problem must be considered in relation to the submarine problem.

This government, it was asserted, means the reduction in naval armaments which the people of the world expect and considers that there are three kinds of reduction. First, scrapping of ships in existence; second, if the first is not possible, reduction in building programs sanctioned. Thirdly, it was claimed that there is actual and real reduction involved in keeping old ships afloat and not scrapping them as soon as planned so as to build new ones.

Competition Curb Is Sought.

One of the most significant glimpses into the present British attitude toward the conference was the statement that the conference will be a success even if it does nothing more than put an end to competitive building, the inference being that an end to rivalry is more important than actual reduction in the number of ships now afloat or planned under present programs.

While Mr. MacDonald was receiving the press of the world and breaking foreign office precedents, and plans to bring Secretary of State Stimson to London in the early hours of Friday morning from the steamer George Washington were scrapped owing to the heavy weather the ship has met, William Olive Bridgeman, former first lord of the admiralty, indulged in some extremely plain speaking on the conference to the Navy League.

Mr. Bridgeman was the head of the British delegation under the late Baldwin government to the abortive three-power naval parley at Geneva in 1927. He dryly remarked today, "The hope of success this time will not be lessened by the absence of Mr. Shearer."

Cruiser Cut Called "Disquieting."

Mr. Bridgeman criticized the government for suspending the building of two cruisers "without any equivalent sacrifice by other countries," which he termed "very disquieting." On parity issues he said all we have heard about is cruisers, adding "what about capital ships, destroyers, submarines and personnel? In the last three categories we have not got parity with the largest naval power. I presume that will be our aim at the conference."

The former first lord said that the world had not learned until the speech of January 10, at Sheffield, by the present first lord of the admiralty, Albert Victor Alexander, that this conference expects an agreement to remain in force only until 1936.

This, he said, made possible an agreement on building programs for five years even if permanent ratios can not be worked out at the conference opening next Tuesday.

Ciro Terranova Is Taken In Vitale Dinner Holdup

New York, Jan. 16 (A.P.). — Ciro Terranova, who has been sought by police for questioning in connection with the holdup of a dinner for Magistrate Vitale, was arrested today. What charge Terranova was being held on, Deputy Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney declined to say.

Police have charged that the holdup, December 7, was planned by Terranova, ostensibly a produce merchant, but whom police say is a racketeer and associate of gangsters, to secure return from a Chicago gunman of a murder contract calling for the killing of Frankie Yale and Frank Marlow, slain gangster leaders.

FRANCE, ITALY SEEK TO HEAL NAVY RIFT

SESSION'S WORK ENDED

Geneva, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Briand of France and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, attempting to reconcile the divergent attitudes of their countries on respective naval strengths, held a private talk in their hotel today between routine sessions of the League of Nations council.

The French and the Italian delegations declined to disclose the result of the conversation. In well-informed quarters it was reported, however, that little and perhaps no progress had been made toward an agreement about their naval needs.

Foreign Minister Grandi was said to have given no evidence of modifying Italy's demand for parity with France.

Returning together to the council chamber the two statesmen sat side by side during the late afternoon session.

The business of the council session was virtually completed tonight, with a few odds and ends and the valedictory speech of President Zaleski of Poland left over for tomorrow. There will be a general exodus for London and the naval conference.

FRENCH TO DEMAND PROTECTION AT SEA

on sufficient naval forces in the Mediterranean to assure the smooth passage of colonial troops from Africa in time of national peril.

The correspondent learned that the following will be some of the outstanding points of French policy at London:

France favors reduction in the size of battleships and also the caliber of guns, because this would result in a considerable lowering of naval budgets. Her delegates might agree to elimination of battleships if other nations should prefer their abolition.

France believes the problem of naval limitation or reduction to be essentially a political problem and hence will base her naval requirements on world political conditions and the prospects of the consolidation of peace.

France will accept naval reductions from her prewar strength which was about 1,000,000 tons and which the war prevented her replacing immediately.

France will subscribe to any London accord in arresting naval competition which would take into account her dignity, importance and security.

France will adhere to and perhaps propose a naval code which will pledge humanitarian conduct in employment of naval weapons whether they be battleships, cruisers or submarines.

France is not worried over the question of parity with Italy and believes this can be settled by a discussion of needs and figures rather than the principle of parity which Italy can have theoretically provided it is not directed at France alone.

Heflin and Evans Lunch Together

Senator and Ku Klux Head Observed in Cafe; "Just Guest," Says Lawmaker.

Gossip buzzed in the Capitol yesterday when Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, was observed having lunch in the senators' private restaurant with Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

There was a disposition to regard the incident as evidence that the klan will come to Heflin's rescue in the present disturbed condition in his State, where he has been read out of the party by the Democratic State committee because he bolted the national ticket in 1928.

Heflin, however, said there was no political significance in the luncheon. It was just a casual meeting of old friends, he said, explaining that Evans just dropped in and was invited to stay to lunch.

Home Again Urged For Vice President

Representative Gibson Renews Battle for Residence.

Representative Ernest W. Gibson (Republican), of Vermont, yesterday renewed his fight to have the Federal Government erect a permanent home for the Vice President.

Gibson quoted from the autobiography of former President Coolidge to show the need of such a residence. While he was Vice President, Coolidge lived in the Willard Hotel. Vice President Curtis now lives in the Mayflower.

Several years ago Mrs. John G. Henderson offered the Government a beautiful house on Sixteenth street for the use of the Vice President, but her offer was not accepted. The house now is the Spanish Embassy.

WHEELER DEMANDS RADIO GROUP PROBE

FLEXIBLE BILL IS URGED

(Associated Press.)

Reports that the administration was using the Federal Radio Commission as a "political football" came to the attention of the Senate interstate commerce committee yesterday in a demand by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, for an investigation.

The Montanan made his demand as the committee continued hearings on the Couzens communications bill. While no immediate action was taken, Chairman Couzens promised that the committee would consider such a step. Later Senator Couzens said off the floor if it were shown there was no truth in the reports the investigation probably would not be made.

Senator Wheeler asked that Charles McK. Saltzman, who was appointed to the commission last spring by President Hoover, be called to testify.

His request for an investigation was followed by the testimony of M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., who said he had no objection to governmental regulation of radio broadcasting. He did object, however, to regulation of rates charged for advertising.

Says Thad Brown Inexperienced.

Discussing the reports, Senator Wheeler said a newspaperman, whom he did not name, had information that Thad Brown, of Ohio, the commission's legal counsel, had no experience in the radio field, and that it was planned to appoint two Ohio Negroes, who also had no experience, to assist him in the legal work.

"I understand," Senator Wheeler said, "that Saltzman, in this instance, was the man who said, in substance, 'This is the attorney that is wanted by the administration.'

"If the Republican Party wants to pay its indebtedness to the Negro race in this country, it certainly ought not to put them into places where they are going to break down a commission, which has been created for the benefit of all the people of the country."

Mr. Brown has been counsel for the commission for several months. Questioned about the reports mentioned yesterday, he declined to comment on the statement that he knew nothing about radio. He said:

Brown Issues Statement.

"All applications for positions as assistant to the general counsel have been referred to me. None has been from any colored attorneys to my knowledge. Such matter has never been given any consideration at all."

Senator Wheeler also said he had been informed that Lawrence Richey, the President's secretary, had asked for information about the political affiliations of all persons employed by the commission who were receiving salaries of more than $3,000.

In his testimony Mr. Aylesworth urged that regulations approved by the committee for incorporation in the Couzens bill be flexible enough to meet the changing conditions of broadcasting. The proposed measure would group radio, telegraph, telephones and cables under the control of a new Federal communications commission.

Received the nominations of John Motley Morehead, North Carolina, to be Minister to Sweden, and William B. Hamilton, San Francisco, to be collector of customs in San Francisco.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, said that Chairman Smoot of the finance committee was financially interested in sugar production and therefore should not vote on that schedule.

Two New York importers, Peter Fletcher and Samuel Kridel, told the lobby investigating committee that they had collected $38,000 to support their fight for duties on linen and silk.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, called on the interstate commerce committee to investigate charges that the administration is using the Federal Radio Commission as a "political football."

Manuel Roxas, speaker of the Philippine House of Representatives, told the committee on insular affairs that his people wanted independence "whatever the consequences."

Chairman Bingham of that committee introduced a joint resolution for reorganization of the Government's administration of insular possessions.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 3:57 to noon today.

Began debate on the Treasury-Post-office appropriation bill.

Representative Beck (Republican), Pennsylvania, declined the chairmanship of the "wet bloc," and it went to Representative Linthicum (Democrat), Maryland.

Representative Black, (Democrat), New York, declared that the American people are in revolt against the "ecclesiastical backers of prohibition."

Immigration committee took up the recommendation of the President's Crime Commission with regard to border patrol, and the judiciary committee appointed a subcommittee to study the proposal that United States commissioners deal with minor violators.

Foreign affairs committee approved the Fish bill authorizing the President to appoint an ambassador to Poland.

President Hoover asked for a supplemental appropriation of $3,000 to repair damage done by the recent fire in the Capitol.

CLOSE SUGAR TARIFF VOTE IS DUE TODAY

SMOOT'S BALLOTING HIT

(Associated Press.)

The sixth day of debate on the sugar tariff brought forth further conflicting views in the Senate yesterday and the contesting factions agreed that the vote, to be taken not later than noon today, probably will be close.

Democratic advocates of retention of existing rates look to Eastern Republicans to decide the issue, while the Republican regulars favoring higher protection believe enough Democrats and Western Republicans will go over to their cause to put through an increase.

The first ballot will come on the substitute proposal of Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, to keep the sugar tariff as it is in existing law—1.76 cents a pound on Cuban raws. This duty was raised by the House to 2.40 and by the Senate finance committee Republicans to 2.20 cents.

Two Amendments Pending.

Also pending are two amendments by Senator Howell (Republican Independent), Nebraska, providing a Federal bounty to domestic sugar growers and refiners and leaving the present tariffs in effect.

During yesterday's debate, Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, contended that the selection by President Hoover of Edgar B. Brossard, of Utah, as chairman of the Tariff Commission, indicated the President was in favor of a higher sugar tariff. He described Brossard, who comes from a beet sugar State, as a high tariff man.

Senator Blaine (Republican independent), Wisconsin, created a stir when he charged Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, with being financially interested in sugar. He asked the Utah senator to withhold his vote on the proposed increase, as did Senator Grundy (Republican), Pennsylvania, during the roll call on an amendment to raise the tariff on wool yarns. Senator Grundy is a yarn manufacturer.

$400 Interest Admitted.

Senator Smoot said he held only 440 shares in a Western sugar company and at yesterday's prices these were worth only 90 cents a share, or a total of $400. He asked Senator Blaine if he also was not interested in some item in the bill and the Wisconsin senator replied, "Only as a consumer."

Blaine criticized labor conditions in the Western beet field as "little less than the degradation of slavery," with Mexican, Polish and Russian women and children "sprawling on their knees for miles" to weed and top beets.

Republican Independents supporting the bounty idea gained an advocate in Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas. He seconded the stand taken by Senator Borah, of Idaho, that a higher tariff would not benefit domestic growers so long as Philippine imports are permitted free entry.

Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, demanded protection. He said it was "the height of unwisdom not to foster that which we can not do without," and held this country, if given the proper stimulus, could produce enough sugar to meet its requirements.

The Ohioan opposed a bounty, saying it was unsafe, and would lead to the granting of bounties to other producers.

Norris, Barkley Fight High Tariffs.

Those opposing a higher tariff included Senators Norris (Republican Independent), Nebraska, and Barkley, of Kentucky, a Democratic member of the finance committee. Neither, however, discussed the bounty.

"From the standpoint of the beet sugar man," Senator Norris said, "he ought to be satisfied with the law as it is today."

Gaining the floor in his own right late in the day, Senator Smoot challenged Senator Blaine to prove that a single child worked in the beet fields of the West. He took particular exception to Senator Blaine's statement that rheumatism was prevalent among women workers in the fields because they had to crawl on the damp ground and that the "fingers and limbs of the little children were warped" from digging beets.

Hoover Nominates Envoy to Sweden

(Associated Press.)

John Motley Morehead, of North Carolina, yesterday was nominated by President Hoover to be Minister to Sweden.

The new Minister to Sweden is 58 years old and for the past five years has been Mayor of Rye, N. Y. Mr. Morehead is an electrical engineer, and has been associated continuously for 37 years with the interests which control the Peoples Gas, Light & Coke Co. of Chicago, and a number of other public utilities.

He is a grandson of John M. Morehead, who was governor of North Carolina in 1840 and 1842.

Although Mr. Morehead has been mayor of Rye for five years he still maintains a home in North Carolina and spends a part of each year there. He was identified as a North Carolinian when the nomination was made.

Inquiry Is Forecast Into Holding Firms

(Associated Press.)

Proponents of an investigation into holding companies and investment trust companies had their say yesterday before the House rules committee, with which rests the decision whether and when the House will be given a chance to vote on the proposal.

Chairman Snell of the committee said later that there appeared to be no opposition to the inquiry and predicted the resolution authorizing it would be approved today.

Chairman Parker, of the House interstate commerce committee, which would conduct the study under his resolution, argued in its favor. He was supported by Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, ranking minority member of the committee.

ARIZONA POLICE QUIZ THREE IN KIDNAPING

Woman Alternately Admits and Denies Identity Under Grilling.

OFFICERS FIND WOUND

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Sullen and defiant, two men and a woman captured by a posse after an exciting chase through mountainous Arizona country were in jail here today and were interrogated in connection with the slaying of a Pennsylvania policeman, a Texas bank holdup, and a series of robberies in Pennsylvania and Arizona.

The woman, who said last night she was Irene Schroeder, blonde "Trigger Woman" of Benwood, W. Va., alternately admitted and denied her identity today. She said today her name is Mildred Winthrop and she has no son in West Virginia named Donnie. Soon afterward she expressed a wish to see Donnie, "my son."

Examination of the woman revealed a flesh wound in the neck, caused by a rifle bullet when she and her companions attempted to fight it out with the posse.

The two men are M. Glen Dague, alias Albert Winthrop, and Joe E. Wells. The latter has a bullet wound in his right leg, and officers pointed out that one of the robbers who held up a Coleman, Tex., bank recently had been shot. Dague and the woman are suspected of slaying Corpl. Brady Paul, of the Pennsylvania Highway Police, December 27 last.

Pinal County officers filed complaints against the trio today charging kidnaping for the purpose of robbery, an offense which carries life imprisonment as a penalty. The officers said they would insist that Arizona try the trio unless Pennsylvania can prove positively it has a case of first-degree murder against them.

In Maricopa County complaints were issued against the three, charging assault with intent to murder. This charge was the outgrowth of the gun fight between them and officers at Chandler, when Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright was injured seriously while attempting to rescue Deputy Sheriff Joe Chapman, who had been kidnaped and wounded in an attempt to arrest the trio for driving an alleged stolen automobile.

The sheriff's office records disclosed that Wells served two terms in the State prison at McAlester, Okla. He was released last month. Wells said he joined the Schroeder woman and Dague in Texas late in December.

Officers said Wells admitted he and Dague held up and robbed two men in El Paso, Tex., and attempted to hold up a third, who escaped "after we had beaten him up pretty bad."

National government gunboats, which are reported steaming from Canton to Hoihow, are expected to bombard the city on arrival. The American destroyer MacLeish is expected at Hoihow tonight from Swatow to protect fifteen American residents.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD, CHOKED BY PEARLS

Mystery Surrounds Body Discovered in Movie Man's Apartment.

DIRECTOR GIVES NO CLEW

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The body of Mrs. Harriet Adler, 38, was found today in the penthouse apartment of Dudley Murphy, 28, a motion picture director. Mrs. Adler apparently had been choked to death by her pearl necklace. Her body was found by a Negro maid.

Murphy told police he did not know how the woman had died.

She came to his apartment about 1:30 o'clock this morning, he said, and was apparently intoxicated.

Murphy said that he and John Barbour, who lives with him, had been to the theater and that Barbour went home ahead of him and that when he arrived at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Adler refused to leave. They left her on a couch in the living room, he continued, and both he and Barbour went to bed.

Henry Weinberg, assistant medical examiner, said that he found the imprint of Mrs. Adler's necklace on the back of her neck. She was fully dressed.

The imprint was not deep, nor did the woman's face show the usual signs of strangulation, officials said. It was regarded as possible that the woman had caught the necklace as she fell over.

An autopsy to determine the exact cause of death will be performed tomorrow. Murphy and Barbour both told the medical examiner that they had been drinking.

HUNDREDS ROUTED BY INDIANA FLOODS

COLD IS BOON TO SOUTH

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Flood conditions approaching in magnitude those of 1913 prevailed today in the Wabash and White River valleys in Indiana. The high water has caused heavy property damage, but no loss of life. Several hundred persons have been driven from their homes and thousands of acres of lowlands have been inundated.

A cold wave has served to check the rising smaller streams and to bring to an end the heavy precipitation that caused the floods.

The flood crest on the Lower Wabash may not be reached for three or four days, but precautions taken by cities along the stream are expected to prevent any disaster. Flood prevention works undertaken after the 1913 flooda have protected many communities.

Governor Hears Red Cross Man.

Gov. Harry G. Leslie conferred today with H. B. Williamson, of Washington, national director of disaster relief for the American Red Cross. Mr. Williamson, who had just concluded a trip through the lower Wabash Valley, in the region of Vincennes, told Gov. Leslie that there is no immediate need for assistance in that district.

Despite a protest from officials of Vincennes and Knox County, Gov. Leslie dispatched a small detachment of Indiana National Guardsmen to protect a 3-mile approach to the bridge on U. S. Highway 41, across the White River at Hazelton, 15 miles south of Vincennes.

The troops were sent at the request of John J. Brown, director of the State highway commission, who said that reports had been received of threats to dynamite the bridge approach in order to relieve flood pressure on levees further upstream.

Brighter Outlook in South.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Subfreezing temperatures expected to extend deep into the midsouth brought a brighter outlook tonight to residents of flood threatened lowlands along the lower Mississippi.

Fights still were in progress, however, to hold within bonds interior streams filled to their banks by a week of rain.

Crews worked on levees along the Coldwater River in Mississippi, Big Lake, in northeastern Arkansas, and on the St. Francis River in Dunklin County, Mo.

Story of Planes' Battle With Cold Picked From Air

William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer.
LIEUT. ARTHUR I. ENNIS, of the Air Corps, reading a radio message from the weather-bound planes of the first pursuit group handed him by Henry A. Farnham, owner of Station W3ASO.

Radio Relay League Helps Army Officers Here Learn of Flight.

Again last night, officers of the Army Air Corps here traced through local stations of the American Radio Relay League the battle with the elements being fought by 21 planes of the First Pursuit Group in the frozen Northwest.

Lieut. Arthur I. Ennis, of the information section, Air Corps, sat beside Henry A. Farnham, 313 V street northeast, owner of station W3ASO, while the operator picked meager details of the flight from ahe air. Although static interferred to a great extent, and W1MK, the powerful relay station at Hartford, Conn., was not operating, yesterday's story of the group's efforts to complete their mission was pieced together from the reports of other stations.

Fr the first time since taking off from the ice of Lake St. Clair, at Selfridge Field, Mich., the radio plane assigned to the group, managed to get through a few weak signals direct. This message indicated that the crew of the plane faced hunger as well as intense cold, as a heavy snowstorm held it fifteen miles from Amasa, Mich., with no supplies and all rations gone.

"We have eight men besides two pilots," the message from the radio plane said, "including six mechanics, one radio man, and one photographer. No supplies on board. Expect emergency rations. We can not use radio equipment further for either sending or receiving due to discharged batteries. No flying due to heavy snowstorm. Plane located fifteen miles from service station, so don't know what to do about batteries."

This brief message was picked up by V. B. Babcock, operating Station W8BGY at Lansing, Mich., and relayed to W3ASO here, which is being used to furnish news to Air Corps headquarters. During the night, word of the other planes filtered in slowly.

One transport was still down at Minot, N. Dak., unable to get away because of a heavy snowstorm and another had fought its way to Kalispell, Mont., 17 miles from its goal. Meanwhile, a story of supreme effort and heroic failure had been written at Great Falls, Mont., where seventeen pursuit planes have been held on the ground since Monday.

It was learned that baecause special equipment for heating the engines and the oil and radiator fluid was in the transport planes, an effort had been made to start the engines without them. Since all mechanics with the flight had also been left behind, citizens of Great Falls turned out Tuesday morning to help the pilots warm their oil and radiator fluid, and start the engines. After several hours of heart-breaking work the engines were finally started just as a blinding snowstorm came up and made flying impossible.

Yesterday morning, the City of Great Falls placed two large steam boilers on the field to expedite starting. With this help, six palnes managed to get into the air on the last leg of the flight to Spokane, Wash. Shortly after, four of them were back in Great Falls, and two had been forced down somewhere between the Montana city and Spokane. They had run into impassable weather.

With reports of better weather in the Northwest coming in from amateur stations in the league, Air Corps officers here hoped last night that the pursuit planes of the group would complete their flight to Spokane today and that the larger planes would catch up with them there shortly. Meanwhile, they are turning to the network of amateur stations for news which otherwise would be exceedingly difficult to obtain.

Business Activity To Be Appraised

Commerce Body, Meeting Here This Month, Will Survey Progress.

(Associated Press.)

An appraisal of the progress toward overcoming the effects of the recent collapse of security values and keeping up a normal flow of business activity will be made by the executive committee of the National Business Survey Conference at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce of the United States January 23.

The meeting was called yesterday by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the conference, to survey "the progress that has been made in marshalling the mercantile and industrial forces of the country for the stabilization of business and to determine what further steps may be feasible in the prosecution of its purpose."

"As a basis of its deliberations," he said, "it will have before it the information submitted by members of the general committee of the conference regarding conditions in more than 150 trade and industrial groups. In addition, it will have information from local commercial organizations.

"The executive committee will consider what further steps may be taken and what direction this concerted effort should take to achieve most effectively the aims of the conference."

Quartet Jailed On Rum Charges

Two Raids Net Raiders Quantity of Alleged Rum and Beer.

Four persons were arrested on charges of violation of the dry law in raids by police squads at houses on Pennsylvania avenue northwest near Third street.

Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman and Detectives Richard Cox, George McCarron and James Mostyn, seized a pint of liquor after a thorough search of one establishment and arrested Walter Tapscott, 29 years old, on charges of possession and maintaining a nuisance, and his wife, Marie Tapscott, 31 years old, on charges of sale and possession and maintaining a nuisance.

While the Letterman raid was in progress, Sergt. J. C. Maloney and Detective E. C. O'Mera, of the Sixth Precinct, invaded a house on the opposite side of the street, where James C. Rice, 73 years old, was arrested on charges of sale and possession, and his wife, Carrie Rice, 29, was taken on a possession charge. Eighty bottles of beer and a half pint of liquor was seized, police reported.

Two Are Convicted As Dry Law Violators

Fred Martinez, a Spanish-Indian, and Maxwell Mitchell, colored, were convicted by a jury in the Police Court yesterday on a charge of violating the national prohibition act.

Martinez leaped into fame during the summer, when he is said to have jumped into an automobile belonging to the Cuban Embassy. Martinez and Mitchell were alleged to have been occupants of a garage and to have fled when the police arrived on the scene. A considerable quantity of whisky is said to have been found in the garage by the raiding squad. Martinez and Mitchell were tried several weeks ago, but at that time a mistrial resulted. It is understood that an appeal will be taken.

THRONG WITNESSES POLLARD INAUGURAL

Incoming Governor Cheered by Crowd Braving Rain at Richmond.

BYRD IS GIVEN OVATION

another on the farm situation in the State, which he proposes to aid.

Rain, for the first time in more than a quarter of a century, forced the inaugural address to be held indoors, but the parade, drenched, but still colorful, passed the reviewing stand, where the oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Robert R. Prentis, before the group adjourned to the House of Delegates hall for the address.

Assembly Greets Guests.

Together the two houses of the General Assembly, outgrowth of the council at Jamestown 311 years ago and the oldest legislative body in the New World, received its distinguished guests: United States Senators Claude A. Swanson, also a former governor, and Carter Glass, and Senator W. E. Brock, of Tennessee; former Govs. E. Lee Trinkle, Westmoreland Davis and Andrew J. Montague, at present a member of Congress; the Supreme Court of Appeals justices, State Federal judges, and other State officers, all of whom were introduced by William Bullitt Fitzhugh, door keeper of the house, a great-grandson of Patrick Henry, the first Governor of Virginia.

The ceremony indoors over, the assemblage adjourned to the south portico of the Capitol which was wrapped in fog and drenched by a light, but steady drizzle.

21-Gun Salute Is Fired.

"Onward Christian Soldiers" was played by the colorful band of the Bedford Fire Department as the governors, old and new, approached with the guard of honor, which was the Bedford National Guard unit. The line of march was crowded with observers, all carrying umbrellas, and the view from above was as of the rippling top of a circus tent.

Gov. Pollard walked on Gov. Byrd's right as they approached the rostrum and immediately, even before the oath was administered, the Richmond Howitzer Company's guns, stationed a mile away on Mayos Island in the James River, because the last time they fired a salute in the city they shattered $200 worth of window panes, began firing the 21-gun salute due a governor in his own State.

The staff, ill-equipped with umbrellas, commandeered those nearby and held them over the party, while the Rev. William Carey James, D. D., Dr. Pollard's pastor, who said he preferred immersion to sprinkling, offered a short, solemn prayer for the safety of the State, and incoming and outgoing magistrates.

Governor Borrows Umbrella.

Under the umbrella borrowed from a newspaper man, Dr. Pollard kissed the Bible as Chief Justice Prentis spoke slowly the words of the prescribed oath. As the ceremony reached this point there was a downpour, and Speaker of the House J. Sinclair Brown said the speech would be delivered inside. Justice Henry R. Holt swore in James H. Price, who succeeds Col. West, eight years the lieutenant governor.

As much of the vast throng as was able to get in went to the hall of the House of Delegates, where for 45 minutes the Williamsburg educator outlined his ideas of government, which so closely resemble those of his predecessor.

A great ovation marked the close of the address, which was a solemn prayer on the part of Gov. Pollard that his mind might ever "be clear to see the right and that my will may be strong to do it."

General Assembly Adjourns.

Following the ceremony, the General Assembly adjourned until noon tomorrow, at which time it will resume its usual work. The legislative committee doffed its high silk hats, much the worse for the day's wear, and its formal dress, and went back to join the entire assembly in discussion of the judgeship fight set for joint caucus discussion and settlement at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It will, with Gov. Pollard, visit Washington, Friday, to hear plans of the National Park and Planning Commission.

Gov. Pollard this afternoon signed his appointments, most of them routine, to be sent to the Legislature for confirmation tomorrow. This list included practically all the major officials of the government, omitting only assignments of the adjutant generalship and the commissionership of agriculture and immigration and three members of the new board of education.

Among the important of the new commissions signed was that of T. McCall Frazier, his campaign manager, to fill the place of James M. Bayes, jr., as motor vehicle commissioner. This change has created a considerable disturbance, which to a lesser degree, is still making its influence felt.

Prospective Bills Outlined.

Four prospective controversial bills, including one to put an additional tax on chain stores for protection of independent operators, were announced.

Besides the chain stores bill, which will be introduced by Delegate Wilbur C. Hall, of Loudoun, and Delegate Daniel L. Porter, of Orange, there is to be a bill to restrict billboards along the highways, a bill to lessen the penalty for arson in hope of more convictions and a compulsory trial justice bill are in preparation.

The chain store bill will be drafted after the fashion of the North Carolina law, which has been held constitutional by the North Carolina Supreme Court, and would provide a tax of $25 on each store above a certain number. A similar bill, carrying a $250 tax provision, was killed at the last session.

Billboard Bill Once Killed.

The billboard restriction bill is being drawn up by A. C. Crason, of Riverton, but its patrons have not been announced as yet. It, too, was killed last session, but only by the House, after it had passed the Senate.

The trial justice bill, which will be sponsored by Senator B. F. Buchanan, would provide that all counties have trial justices and retain justices of the peace only as warrant-issuing agencies, as they are now in cities where there are trial justices.

Supreme Court Laughs At Borah Senate Jibe

Senator Borah got a laugh out of the Supreme Court yesterday at the expense of one of his colleagues in the Senate.

He appeared to move the admisson to practice of Senator Glenn, of Illinois. Under the rules he was required to give the qualifications of Senator Glenn. In doing so he said the Illinois senator had filed papers with the clerk, adding, "I believe them in good form."

"You seem to express some doubt," interjected Justice Holmes, who is presiding in the absence of Chief Justice Taft. The Justice smiled as he made the comment.

"Yes," responded the Idahoan senator, "because he is a member of the Senate."

The jibe was greeted with laughter and seemed to be as much enjoyed by some members of the court as by any one in the audience.

Joseph B. McCaffrey, 26 years old, an automobile salesman of 1201 Thirteenth street northwest, and Mrs. Agnes Elizabeth Kinney, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, of 226 First street southwest, yesterday in New York obtained a license for a wedding they said would be solemnized at once.

Steamer Sinks, Another Smashed in Fog Crash

Gibraltar, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The Italian steamer Enrichetta, 3,261 tons, from Venice for Rotterdam, and the Swedish steamer Adriatic, 1,873 tons, were in collision in a dense fog last night 30 miles west of Gibraltar.

The Adriatic sank, and the Enrichetta was damaged to such an extent that she sent out a wireless call for immediate assistance. The crew of the Adriatic was rescued by the Italian vessel which was proceeding slowly toward Gibraltar today. Two steamers had gone to the aid of the Enrichetta.

STRIKE INJUNCTION LAW ACTION SOUGHT

A. F. of L. Seeks to Have Congress Consider Bill in Near Future.

ILLICIT IMMIGRATION HIT

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Immediate steps will be taken to obtain early consideration by Congress of the proposed bill to regulate strike injunction proceedings approved at the Toronto convention of the American Federation of Labor, the executive council of the federation decided here today.

The council also reaffirmed the federation's policy as to strict enforcement of immigration quota laws, especially as to Latin-American countries, and decided to request the secretary of the Pan-American Federation of Labor to meet with representatives of the American Federation in Havana next winter for the purpose of strengthening affiliations.

William Green, president, pointed out that the present unemployment situation requires strict enforcement of immigration quota restrictions. He said thousands of foreigners are being "bootlegged" into the United States to increase the number of unemployed.

Mr. Green said the injunction bill would reestablish the right to strike, organize and picket, and "restore freedom of meeting, speech and press." It would not abolish the injunction in labor disputes, he added, but would establish limitations on its use.

The council also received a report on general organization work throughout the country.

Tomorrow's meeting was called off to permit the council members to visit a home for aged carpenters recently erected at Lakeland, Fla., by the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. It is probable that the council meeting will be concluded Friday.

A verdict of accidental death was returned in the case of 7-year-old John Lewis York, of 1244 C street northeast, by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest in the District Morgue. The child was injured in a traffic mishap Saturday and died Tuesday at Providence Hospital.

The verdict exonerated Andrew G. Cronk, a fireman attached to No. 1 Engine Co., driver of an automobile which struck the child. The boy was playing in the street near his home, it was reported, and was injured when he ran into the side of the fireman's car.

ARLINGTON COUNTY JAIL UNDER ATTACK

Organized Women Voters Score Conditions at Institution.

ZONING ACTION PENDS

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Appealing for funds for the erection of a new county jail, Mrs. Crandal Mackey, chairman of the special committee representing the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, appeared before the county board of supervisors at its meeting held yesterday and asked that an appropriation be included in the budget for the new year for the erection of a new jail. The committee submitted the following report:

"We bring to your attention, for your earnest consideration, a report upon the unsanitary and inhuman conditions existing today in the present antiquated and dilapidated building called the jail.

"The conditions existing at the jail are not new nor are they the result of ignorance or indifference on the part of this board, but as we have been informed, the result of insufficient funds with which to alleviate these conditions without adding additional burdens to the already overburdened taxpayer.

Responsibility Is Cited.

"This we believe to be true, but the time has arrived when this board and the citizens of Arlington County must realize that they share shoulder to shoulder alike this great responsibility and should be anxious and eager as far as it is in their power to blot out and destroy forever from their midst this festering, polluting and most obnoxious sore in the heart of their otherwise most beautiful county seat.

"You have in your possession plans drawn by Capt. Frank Upman, who ranks high as an architect. These plans are complete, meeting all demands necessary for a modern jail and costing about $100,000. The money required to build this jail could be raised by a levy or by successive levies spreading over a period of several years. This, of course, makes the present taxpayer bear the burden, but we feel that a bond issue would be hopeless and as the $40,000 addition to the courthouse was raised by a tax levy we feel that this is the way to raise the money for a new jail."

The appeal, together with the report, was received by the board without comment. It was ordered filed.

With the zoning commission having completed its work, the board by unanimous vote revoked the present ordinance which required all permits for new buildings to be first approved by the Zoning Commission before approval by the County Board of Supervisors. Until such time as the present zoning ordinance, as approved by the Zoning Commission and now in the hands of the board of supervisors is adopted, all permits will be filed with the county engineer.

Stenographer Is Employed.

At the request of Commonwealth Attorney William C. Gloth, and on motion by Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, the board authorized the employment of Mrs. Emma Weekley as stenographer in the office of Mr. Gloth at a salary of $100 a month, effective January 1, 1930.

The board announces that in accordance with the act of the Legislature, the zoning ordinance as approved by the Zoning Commission, will be advertised for two weeks, and that on February 14, at 10 o'clock in the morning, there will be a public hearing prior to its final adoption as the zoning ordinance for Arlington County.

With the opening of the hearing on the question of the alleged indebtedness to the county of more than $10,000 by the Arlington Investment Corporation, Supervisor Hedrick, who is a stockholder, director and the manager of the corporation, announced his withdrawal as a member of the board of supervisors and from the corporation, leaving the question to the chairman of the board, Edward Duncan, and E. C. Turnburke.

Commonwealth Attorney Gloth read a letter from the corporation which stated that the installation of the water and sewer in the subdivision known as Waycroft had been authorized by the board of directors.

Corporation Claims Credit.

It further pointed out that the corporation felt it was due a credit of $1,650 on the installation of water, leaving a balance of $5,085.06 with interest from May 16, 1929. The item for the sewer installation is $3,734.44 which has been paid by the county, it is claimed, with a balance due of $300 to the contractor.

Mr. Gloth stated that he wanted to be reasonable with all parties concerned, but stated that he did not think a note should be taken for the installation of the sewer project.

After consideration the board advised Mr. Gloth to arrange a settlement within the next 15 days.

A report submitted by County Engineer Kinnier shows that for the month of December the water department expended the sum of $5,630.33. Of this amount $2,531.10 was for pay roll and $3,099.32 for equipment purchased to be used for extensions and for making house connections. The report shows a total of 68 taps made during the month.

Plans for the entertaining of more than 200 members of the General Assembly together with Gov. John G. Pollard and former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, who come to Arlington County tomorrow as the guests of the Chambers of Commerce of Alexandria City, Arlington and Fairfax counties, were completed at a meeting of the committee held in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce yesterday, according to the chairman, Henry C. Morris.

The plans are as follows: The party will leave Richmond by buses furnished the chambers of commerce by several of the bus companies in the State, reaching Alexandria at 11:30 a. m.. From Alexandria, where they will be met by the members of the board of directors of the three organizations, they will proceed to the Arlington National Cemetery, where Gov. Pollard will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at 12:45 o'clock. From there they go to the Washington Golf and Country Club for luncheon as the guests of the Arlington and Fairfax chambers of commerce. Leaving the clubhouse about 2:30 o'clock, a tour of northern Virginia and Washington, covering the approaches to the Capital, will be made. In the evening the party will attend the meeting of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission in Constitutional Hall at 8 o'clock. Among the speakers will be Gov. Ritchie of Maryland and Gov. Pollard of Virginia.

According to an announcement made by Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth yesterday, Judge Frederick Coleman, of Fredericksburg, will hold a hearing on the temporary injunction granted by Judge Howard W. Smith restraining the county board of supervisors from moving from the town hall of Potomac the new American LaFrance fire engine.

The injunction was granted on December 31, 1929, about the time County Engineer C. L. Kinnier was in the act of removing the equipment, claimed to be the property of the county by the decree of the annexation proceedings, which became effective that night at midnight. The claim is that the engine in question was purchased from funds paid by the residents of the town of Potomac and citizens of Arlington County from the special fire tax-levy.

Despite the claims, it is learned that the engine today is not more than half paid for.

The Arlington County Monarch Club holds its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12 noon in the Ashton Heights Womans Clubhouse. President Joseph Anderson will preside.

The Clarendon Citizens Association meeting last night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce in the Rees Building nominated the following to membership on the board of directors of the Clarendon Citizens Corporation: A. D. Langley, H. W. Beattie, G. W. Mitzgar, J. F. Bushong, L. C. McNemar, H. F. Smith and F. P. Dewey. The election will be held in the near future at a special meeting.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Clarendon Fire Department will hold a benefit card party tonight at the home of Mrs. P. Griffin, 218 Key Boulevard, Lyon Village.

With the line extending far out in the halls in the Arlington County courthouse yesterday, several hundred owners of cars waited until the last minute to secure their 1930 license plates.

Midnight last night being the dead line, motorists are warned that, according to the State law, they subject themselves to arrest by attempting to operate their cars today with 1929 license plates.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

STRANGE how people become hysterical.

Two weeks gone by, not a visitor to our house, and all because of Pepita, the parrot.

Luella was wondering what to do with Pepita—put her in the Zoo, turn her loose, or give her back to the sailor.

"Why not shoot her?" I suggested.

The explosion that followed reminded me of the poem about Barbara Fritchie—"Touch not a feather on yon green head!"

• • • •

IT occurred to me that drowning is rather a pleasant sensation. At least, that's what they say.

"I'll have you reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Parrots," flashed Luella, and from the gleam in her eye she meant business.

"How about gas?"

"Nothing of the kind," she snapped. "Pepita is too valuable a bird——"

"She might be valuable, worth even her weight in gold, but look what she's done to us——"

"What has poor Pepita done?"

"Our friends never come to see us any more. You know why——"

Luella silenced me. "Don't let Pepita hear you say that," she warned. "You know she's sensitive!"

THAT'S true, too; but I don't believe in pampering parrots.

"Anyway," went on Luella, "all this hubbub is a lot of silly nonsense. Imagine being afraid of Pepita. Why, she wouldn't harm a cracker."

That may be so, but there's the fever—parrot fever they call it.

"Pepita hasn't run a temperature since we've had her," said Luella, explaining all the precautions taken. When we get the doctors' bills next month it'll be worse than awful.

The only real objection I could offer was something that should never have been mentioned—Pepita's vocabulary.

Luella flew into a rage.

"You're to blame for that," she told me. "You and your temper. Every time you smash your thumb with a hammer or mislay something Pepita learns a new word. She was a lady 'til she met you."

• • •

PEPITA a lady! You should hear her!

"What you ought to do, Luella, is send her to a boarding school, or put her in a museum, or——"

"She'll stay right where she is," declared the boss, stamping her foot. "In the future you keep away from her——"

That suits me. The less I see of Pepita the better, while parrot fever is rampant. One way out, of course, would be to get a bird dog.

Asheville Citizens Turn Out for Taft

Chief Justice Takes Motor Ride as Step in His Rest-Cure Policy.

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Chief Justice William Howard Taft, of the United States Supreme Court, who arrived here this morning for a month's rest, motored along scenic highways of this section for more than an hour this afternoon. The former President, who seemed not at all tired from his overnight journey from Washington, appeared refreshed after his drive. Mrs. Taft and a nurse accompanied him.

City officials welcomed the Chief Justice upon his arrival here and escorted him to the Grove Park Inn where reservations had been made for him. A cheer from a crowd of sightseers greeted Mr. Taft as he stepped from his train. He replied by bowing smilingly and taking off his hat. During the morning he remained in his room and had lunch served there.

Dr. P. R. Terry and Dr. Paul Ringer, Asheville physicians, conferred during the day with Dr. Thomas Claytor, of Washington, the Chief Justice's physician, who accompanied him here. Dr. Terry will be in charge of the former President during his stay here. Dr. Claytor left this afternoon for Washington.

Woman Switches Plea; Sentenced in Robbery

Adrian, Mich., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Mrs. Thelma Sutton Woodward changed her plea from not guilty to guilty here today in connection with the robbery of the Exchange Bank, of Clayton, and was sentenced by Judge G. Arthur Rathbun to serve from 5 to 10 years in the Detroit House of Correction.

Mrs. Woodward, then Thelma Sutton, was alleged by the State to have driven the car in which James H. Straley and Rollo Haroff escaped after holding up the Clayton Bank and taking about $1,300. The men were sentenced after pleas of guilty last month to from 20 to 40 years in State Prison. The woman was married last Thanksgiving Day, only two days before her arrest for the robbery.

POST $20,000 PRIZE; DRIVE GETS STARTED

Joe Opportunity Says He Will for Once Knock Twice on Doors.

CASH BONUSES OFFERED

Old Man Opportunity was a little late in arriving at the editorial rooms of The Washington Post last night. He dragged his feet wearily across the floor and subsided with an audible sigh into a convenient waste basket.

"What's the matter?" some one asked. "This should have been an easy day for you. Your $20,000 prize race is off with a glorious start, and it seems that everyone knows all about it by this time."

"Well, I guess every subscriber to The Post does," answered the old fellow as he carefully draped his whiskers over the side of the basket. (Note: Editorial waste baskets are balloon size to accommodate all the publicity material that is "filed" in them.) "But I've had to go back and remind a lot of people who aren't regular subscribers that they are eligible to compete in the race for twelve automobiles, sixteen radios and the cash commissions that The Post is offering.

Stresses Cash Commissions.

"That's another thing I've had to talk about—cash commissions. Just think of how much extra money men and women can earn in their spare time by securing subscriptions to The Washington Post, even if they do not win one of the capital prizes. I guess I didn't make that quite clear enough when I went around knocking the first time, and so I've had to violate my usual rule and knock twice on some people's doors.

"I've had a brand-new group of doors to work on, too, in order to tell people of what I am offering with their subscriptions to The Post—all the latest news of happenings throughout the world, exclusive comic strip features, the work of special writers; editorials famed throughout the country, the sales messages of reliable merchants, rotogravure, colored comic and tabloid magazine sections in addition on Sunday. In fact, everything that a good newspaper should contain, with the added inducement of insurance privileges that should appeal to all.

Mr. Opportunity Tired by Work.

"Throw over another bundle of copy paper, will you please?" • • • Now I'll just make a pillow of this and get a little rest before Mr. Opportunity ("Old Joe" Opportunity, as he is known to his friends), is making a great number of acquaintances in Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia. He has probably visited your home before this, but if you did not recognize him he invites you to call upon him, or his first assistant, the Campaign Manager of The Post "$20,000 Opportunity Campaign," at his fifth floor offices in The Post Building.

On April 8, just a few short weeks away, he will officiate in the distribution of automobiles, radios and cash commissions among those who have participated in his campaign. He is very emphatic in disavowing any relationship to two other old gentlemen, Gamble and Chance, with whom he is sometimes confused in campaigns of this nature, because his rewards are always based upon the actual results achieved by those who seek his favor.

MOTHER WINS RACE HERE WITH CHILDREN

20-MILE CHASE IS FUTILE

A mother who had "kidnaped" her two children from the home of a minister was chased for 20 miles yesterday by a Virginia sheriff. In the end she eluded him.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Arthur C. Wood found her two children, Frances, 8, and Margaret, 6, at the home of the Rev. Henry Muller, pastor of the Northern Methodist Church at Herndon, Va.

They had been placed there by her estranged husband, a Pittsburgh business man, who is the brother of the Rev. Mr. Muller's wife.

Mrs. Wood rounded up her children, placed them in a taxicab, and then sped for Washington.

Mrs. Muller called on Deputy Sheriff Vernon Cockerill for help, and the latter started out in pursuit of the fleeing mother.

Once she had crossed the District line, however, Mrs. Wood was beyond the reach of the Virginia officer.

Man's Dead Body Is Found in Ditch

Justice of Peace Declares That Death Is Due to Natural Causes.

Police of Prince Georges County late last night established the identity of a body found dead late yesterday partially immersed in a ditch near Ritchie Station as that of Albert W. Windsor, 75 years old, of Ritchie Station.

Windsor was found by a mail man alongside the Largo turnpike. An empty bottle was found near the body, according to Policeman Frank P. Prince.

When discovered the man's head was immersed in the ditch. Two bruises were on the man's head, one on his forehead, the other on the back of his head. Police declare that they were probably received in a fall. No foul play was evident, police said.

The body had apparently been there for three hours. A coroner's inquest will be held to determine the cause of death. Justice of the Peace William Griffith said the man's death was due to natural causes.

SECOND HEARING SET IN BOMBING MURDER

Brother of Defendant Will Appear as Witness for State.

FACES MURDER CHARGE

With the State calling on one brother to testify against another, a second preliminary hearing into the Seat Pleasant triple bomb murder will get under way in Upper Marlboro, Md., at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Lawrence Leroy Brady, 26, a Washington automobile mechanic, will be arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder, the State contending that it was he who planted the bomb that killed his sister-in-law and two others.

Herman Brady, 22, brother of Lawrence Leroy and husband of Naomi Hall Brady, 18-year-old bride, one of the bomb victims, will be the principal witness.

Detectives to Testify.

The hearing, which is a continuance of one that was halted last week when Herman Brady refused to testify unless granted immunity from future prosecution, will be held in the Marlboro Courthouse and will be conducted by Justice of the Peace H. W. Gore.

The prosecuting attorneys will be State's Attorney J. Frank Parran and former State's Attorney J. Wilson Ryon. The defense attorneys will be M. Hampton Magruder, State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer and Frank M. Hall.

Among the witnesses, in addition to Herman Brady, will be Lieut. Joseph T. Itzel and Sergt. Charles Schalter, the two Baltimore detectives assigned to the case by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and County Officer Frank Prince.

Will Tell of Interview.

Lieut. Itzel is expected to tell about his interview with the two Brady brothers the Sunday night following the explosion. He has previously stated that Herman signed a statement in which he implicated Leroy.

Herman, the detective said, admitted that he told Leroy of his affair with and subsequent marriage with Naomi Hall when she was on the way to motherhood, and admitted, further, that Leroy later had asked him where the bride lived. Also, Itzel said, Herman told how Leroy took him on a duck hunting trip the day the bomb was planted.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE HURLS DEFI AT WETS

SMITH CAMPAIGN IS HIT

Detroit, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Calls for unrelenting militancy mingled with peans of conquest and hopeful predictions in addresses of national leaders at the opening session of the Antisaloon League's biennial convention here tonight.

The league has "enlisted for the duration of the war," F. Scott McBride, general superintendent, declared in his address, "and it must continue an aggressive, militant fight until country and city submit to the law."

A similar spirit permeated the address of the Rev. A. J. Barton, of Atlanta, chairman of the national executive committee, who spoke on "Dry Strategy for 1930."

Wet Claims Are Rapped.

Dr. Barton asserted that the league is the most hated and feared organization in America. "The wets," he added, "are more and more amazed at the strength of our organization. In a pitying and patronizing way they announce that we are dead, or at least moribund. The wish is father to the thought."

A "well-organized, happily cooperating, gloriously militant body," is the "imperative demand of this hour," Dr. Barton declared. As one point of the strategy to this end he suggested that State leagues be given a larger autonomy, that they "may function more effectively each in its own sphere and may give larger support, both moral and financial, to the national league, and then we will see to it that the State leagues give this moral and financial support * * * in such abounding measure that the national league can function and fight as never before."

Keeping prohibition "out of and above party politics and party contention" was another point stressed. Responsibility for the presence of the prohibition issue in the last presidential campaign was laid by Dr. Barton upon "the nominee of one of the parties, who felt himself big enough to bully his party, to jump its platform and make his own."

Reference to 1928 Campaign.

"I predict," Mr. Barton continued, "that never again will any party allow itself to be so bullied and so led to certain political slaughter * * * and that hereafter both of the major parties will frankly espouse prohibition as a dearly bought and highly fruitful American achievement."

"We must, we will give wholehearted support to our President and all others charged with responsibility for enforcement of law who are faithfully doing their duty," Mr. Barton said, in summing up the final point of his program.

"The whole situation as to prohibition and prohibition enforcement has been changed and is being changed more and more by the example and influence and straightforward course of the President. Three years more—shall I say seven years more?—of the present order of things at the White House, and the whole country will be dry, both in law and in fact."

Anti-Smith Fight Reviewed.

Superintendent McBride said in his address that prohibition is proving itself even in the big cities. "In Chicago," he said, "there were 7,152 saloons and 12,000 speak-easies during the saloon regime. While prohibition has not corrected all the evils of liquor, it is now a new city under prohibition." The wets, he charged, "are now using the wet strength of the cities for wet local option by electing every possible officer they can to defy this law. There is no short cut to victory. The city must be taken if victory is to be complete."

Reviewing the last presidential election, McBride said that the league, in its campaign against Alfred E. Smith "followed the same methods fundamental with the league in 35 years of successful history," using a special fund of $100,000 to "carry the facts as to the attitudes of the candidates to the voters."

The league will continue, he said, "to carry records and attitudes of candidates to the people until through their voice the lingering, lawless and lying liquor traffic, now an outlaw, surrenders to the law and the Constitution."

PLAN OF PETTY DRY COURTS DEFENDED BY WICKERSHAM

mittees, just to dabble into the matter, made known that they would be making a study of their respective angles of the unified border control, just to cooperate with the judiciary committee. The immigration committee will seek to determine the effect on the immigration service and the interstate commerce committee will look into the Coast Guard phase of the proposed consolidation of the two.

Beck Quits Race for Post.

Representative Beck, of Pennsylvania, in what was considered to be a right significant statement, withdrew from the race for chairmanship of the House unofficial wet bloc. As a result, Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, was renamed.

Mr. Beck said he was fully in sympathy with the purpose of the wet bloc, as "prohibition is a cancer that is slowly eating out the moral fiber of the American people. But inasmuch as the problem will never be finally solved until the American people by a very largely preponderating majority have concluded that the experiment is both futile and unwise, and as the 'drys' are not likely to reach that conclusion until every feasible method has been tried to enforce the law, it seems to me that, as it is the manifest duty of the administration to enforce the policy of prohibition, its proposals should be supported unless they clearly conflict with the fundamental law."

This suggests that Mr. Beck wants to be in a position to scuttle his wet companions and go along with Mr. Hoover if it becomes necessary to make a choice.

More Federal Activity Heralded.

In the meantime, the increasing emphasis being placed upon the need of the Federal police courts is being looked upon as the administration's intention to take over all the prosecutions that it can get its hands on. And the question is being asked on the hill whether this intention is not predicated upon the administration's having lost faith in the State courts, at least those of many courts. There is general agreement that the so-called casual cases are now largely responsible for the congested dockets, but if the Federal Government were not now taking too much of the job on its shoulders this would not be the case, it is contended.

The new policy inferred by the demand for a system of police courts is decidedly out of line with Chairman Wickersham's letter to Gov. Roosevelt and the protestations of administration officials. Regarding the latter, it is to be taken for granted that they will continue to insist publicly that there is to be no lessening of State responsibility, but actions speak louder than words.

$400,000,000 SPENT ON DRY LAW AS DECADE IS ENDED

Coast Guard, said that rumrunning could only be stopped by placing vessels at every 500 yards along the coast. With a coast line in excess of 18,000 miles, this would mean more than 50,000 vessels.

Such is a brief picture of the debit side of the ledger of ten years of the dry law.

Division of Summary.

Prohibition unit	$110,000,000
Coast Guard	100,000,000
Department of Justice	75,000,000
Customs Service	24,000,000
Total	$309,000,000

Looking at it from a strictly business sense, there must be added an additional $100,000,000, according to the financial experts of Congress. This to cover 24 vessels furnished to the Coast Guard by the Navy estimated to be valued at $80,000,000; free rent given the prohibition unit in Federal buildings throughout the country, free printing in the Capital, &c. Therefore, the total swells to well over $400,000,000 for Federal enforcement.

It is estimated at the Capitol that one-third of all appropriations for the Department of Justice go to prohibition enforcement and a half of the amount alloted the Bureau of Customs is for a like purpose.

$2,000,000 First Fund.

When prohibition came into existence Congress appropriated $2,000,000 for enforcement for the period from January 17, 1920, to the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920. They scoffed at the thought of the sum eventually reaching $50,000,000 a year.

Prohibition Unit	$13,700,000
Customs	1,500,000
Coast Guard	14,600,000
Justice	9,800,000
Total	$39,600,000

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930:

Prohibition Unit	$15,000,000
Customs	2,000,000
Coast Guard	14,700,000
Justice	10,000,000
Total	$41,700,000

Estimated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931:

Prohibition Unit	$15,000,000
Customs	2,000,000
Coast Guard	16,800,000
Justice	10,700,000

New Vessels Excluded.

These figures do not take into consideration the fact that 24 new vessels are to be turned over to the Coast Guard within the next two years, twelve in 1930 and twelve in 1931, or the other ramifications featured in the cost of national prohibition.

As an example, the Congress spends a large part of its time on the problem, and it is maintained that a proportionate part of the salaries of members would naturally be included in the total cost—on a strictly business basis.

In 1921, the prohibition unit was given $7,100,000, which means that within nine years the cost in this agency has doubled. The Coast Guard expenditures have been approximately the same since it was handed the job ofending smuggling in 1924.

Loss of Revenue Cited.

Teh $3,000,000,000 los sof revenue within the last decade is attributable to the wiping out of internal revenue receipts on liquor.

In 1910, this amounted to $201,008,670; in 1914 the amount was $226,079,689, and in 1917, the last year it was legally collected, the amount was $284,000,512. An average, with the normal increase, would mean that over $3,000,000,000 has been lost in revenue.

The estimate of the number of people killed in Federal inforcement is a subject charged with dynamite. Officially, the number is listed at 143 civilians and 56 agents. Senator Tydings, of Maryland, says the number of people killed is more than 800. Others have touched an even higher figure.

Official Figures Revealed.

Official figures, however, are available on the number of arests. These are by years:

1920	10,548
1921	34,175
1922	42,223
1923	66,936
1924	68,161
1925	62,747
1926	58,391
1927	64,986
1928	75,307
1929	66,878

O fthis total number of arrests, the list of convictions are:

	Number convicted.	Total jail sentences in yaars.
1922	22,749	1,552
1923	34,069	2,003
1924	37,181	3,497
1925	39,072	4,569
1926	41,154	4,884
1927	36,546	4,477
1928	58,813	5,631
1929	Not compiled	Not compiled

National prohibition came into being under the spell of post-war conditions and has developed into the major political issue of the day. Upon it is written success or failure of any candidate for public office.

Issue in National Campaign.

President Hoover, believing that prohibition did not belong in politics, was forced to accept it as a major issue and retaliated by calling it a "noble experiment."

As the anniversary is celebrated, there is none who can prophesy the future.

The drys proudly point to rapid strides of the Nation in commerce, in industry, in science, in education, and in other fields as the fruits of prohibition. The wets, equally as emphatic, point to smuggling, gang wars, bootleg rings and increased use of intoxicants by youngsters, and loudly decry its alleged failure.

There is only one thing claimed as certain at the close of the first decade: it will become more and more a problem, and at the present rate will become the principal activity of the Government.

GEORGIA DRY RAIDS BRING 71 ARRESTS

Columbus Jails Overflow as Undercover Work Bears Fruit.

MORE WARRANTS ISSUED

Columbus, Ga., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—City and county jails were taxed to capacity here tonight with 71 persons taken in a series of prohibition raids conducted by Federal, county and city officers last night and today. The warrants charged selling and possessing intoxicating liquors.

The raids, begun last night, were carried out under the direction of Fred Dismuke, of Macon, district prohibition administrator, and continued until past noon today, when only 11 of the 82 warrants sworn out by W. K. Johnston, local Federal agent, had not been served.

Agents Move Quickly.

Dismuke and six Federal agents arrived here yesterday and with the aid of six city detectives and five county patrolmen mapped out the drive so quietly that most of those arrested were en route to the jail before they were aware that an offensive against alleged liquor-law violators had been launched.

The warrants were issued on evidence furnished by undercover men who had been at work here for several days locating alleged violators of the prohibition laws.

Whites and Negroes alike were taken by the raiders as they sped back and forth across the city and into suburbs, but the arrests were made without incident. Only small quantities of liquor were found, agents reporting a quart being the largest amount taken. Four automobiles were confiscated.

All Bound Over.

Throughout the day W. E. Martin, of Macon, U. S. commissioner, held hearings for those arrested in the roundup, binding all over to the grand jury and fixing bonds at from $1,000 to $3,000. Less than a dozen had made bond tonight, and officers said that unless more obtained their release some would be transferred to jails in other counties to relieve congestion.

While the roundup was under way here, deputy U. S. marshals were busy in Phenix City, Ala., across the State line, serving subpenas on 35 persons to show cause why their places should not be padlocked for alleged violation of the prohibition law.

All persons thus cited were ordered to answer in Federal court at Opelika within 20 days.

Hoover His Reference, Account Is Accepted

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 15 (A.P.). James D. Smith, Corinth, Miss., contractor, wanted to open a charge account at a department store here.

"Yes, sir," said the polite clerk, "and what reference, please?"

"Reference?" said Mr. Smith. "Oh, certainly. Mr. Hoover will do. He is the President, you know."

"Oh," said the clerk, and came up for air. The firm investigated and learned the President recently had notified a Jackson, Miss., firm that Mr. Smith was a "good risk."

The Mississippian was one of the contractors who built Mr. Hoover's Palo Alto, Calif., home.

The account was accepted.

Former Mayor Sought In $9,500 Bond Theft

Stratford, Ontario, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Alderman Tom Brown, prominent local lawyer and a former Mayor of Stratford, who has been missing for several days, was being sought today by police, armed with a warrant charging him with theft of $3,000 in first mortgage loan bonds from one of his clients, Andrew Reinsardt, of this city.

This information against Brown was laid by Reinsardt, who said he found his safety deposit box in Brown's office open and his bonds gone. Charles White, of St. Paul's, Ontario, said he went to Brown's office yesterday and also found his safety box open and $6,500 in bearer bonds missing. One or two registered bonds had not been taken.

GOVERNOR ASKS LAW ON BUYER OF LIQUOR

Richards Recommends Prison on Second Conviction Under Dry Law.

ASSEMBLY HEARS VIEWS

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Gov. John G. Richards, in his annual message to the South Carolina General Assembly today recommended that the buyer of whisky be made equally guilty with the seller and that a jail sentence be mandatory upon a second conviction of a prohibition law violation.

Naming the "use and abuse" of liquor as the greatest source of crime in the State, Gov. Richards said every effort should be made to "bring into disrepute not only those who are engaged in its sale, but also those who share equally in moral responsibility through their patronage and association with the bootleggers."

"If you really wish, gentlemen," he added, "to break up the liquor traffic, enforce the prohibition law, and at the same time create a condition that will alleviate much of the suffering of humanity, generally, then I urge you to pass a law imposing the same penalty upon the buyer that is imposed upon the seller.

"I urge again that the prohibition law be amended so that those convicted of a second offense be not allowed the alternative of a fine."

Slayer of Dry Agent Eludes Search of Posse

New Bern, N. C., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The slayer of Louis M. Davies, Federal dry agent, was still at large today after an all-night search by a posse in the swamps of Pamlico County. Davies was killed by an unidentified Negro yesterday during a raid on a whisky still.

A. D. Mosell, also a dry agent, said the posse was close on the trail of the Negro late last night, the hunted man crossing Broad Creek near the scene of the shooting, not more than 15 minutes ahead of the searchers. The hunt was being continued today.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

The bewitching charm of soft, flattering curves ... the lure of a graceful, modern figure ... don't spoil it by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. Over-indulgence is not commended—when tempted to over-indulge, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that modern, enchantingly-rounded figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! ... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

FEDERAL POLICE COURTS.

Widespread opposition has begun to develop against the administration's plan for handling petty violations of the liquor laws without the formality of grand jury indictments. The Law Enforcement Commission apparently anticipated such opposition when it presented, in its supplemental report, a lengthy argument to support the constitutionality of the plan. But there is a growing feeling that this proposal to convert United States commissioners into virtual police court judges violates the spirit if not the letter of the Constitution.

The plan in brief is this: For all "casual or slight violations" indictment by a grand jury would not be necessary. The accused would be arraigned before a United States commissioner. If he should plead guilty, the commissioner would so report to the Federal District court and sentence would be imposed. If a plea of not guilty should be entered, a hearing would be conducted before the commissioner, and his findings sent to the judge for conviction or acquittal of the defendant. If convicted the defendant would have the right to demand a jury trial, but the district attorney would also have the right to submit the case to the grand jury and ask for an indictment carrying a heavier penalty.

The first objection to the plan is that it would put the Government in the business of prosecuting petty violators of the dry laws. The administration insists that prohibition can not be enforced without cooperation of the States, and at the same time moves to revise its court procedure so that the whole burden will be thrown on the Federal authorities. The proposed special system to deal with petty violations is a substitution for the police powers of the States.

A second objection is the natural opposition of the people to a special judicial system set up to expedite enforcement of a district law. Other minor offenses against Federal law, and they are almost innumerable, would be handled in the same old way. But petty violations of the dry laws would be "railroaded" through, under threat of indictment under the Jones law if the accused should object. Possibility that the American people will approve of singling out this one law for special enforcement is very slight, even if the plan should be enacted by Congress.

The right of trial by jury is deeply ingrained in American judicial customs and traditions. The sixth amendment provides that "in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed." Under this new enforcement scheme, the accused would have the right to trial by jury only after he had been already convicted by a Federal judge, and only if he desired to risk prosecution for a much more serious offense than that of which he was originally accused.

Jury trials, it is true, have been a bugbear in the enforcement of prohibition. In communities where people are not in sympathy with the law, juries have deliberately refused to convict their fellow men for petty violations, even when the evidence of guilt was plain. One reason has been the heavy penalties that Congress has prescribed for the man who sells or transports a pint of liquor. The plan for nonjury trials is represented by the commission as a method of relieving crime congestion, but it is also an obvious move to deter any defendant from claiming his right to a trial by jury.

If the rights of trial by jury are ever altered, that alteration should apply to the whole field of criminal law. Congress must not single out one statute for special enforcement by a system not applied to other statutes. The commission's proposal, nakedly stated, is an attempt to set the prohibition law above other laws and to intimidate defendants so that they will not dare to demand a trial by jury.

NO MEDDLING IN EUROPE.

One of the feelers sent forth from the steamship George Washington is the following:

> It is quite clear from sentiment expressed aboard the George Washington that the American delegation will oppose anything requiring the United States to guarantee peace in the Mediterranean. However, there is no objection to a treaty for consultation and conference without other obligations in case the peace of the Mediterranean is disturbed.

On the contrary, there is decided objection to any arrangement that would require the United States to sit in a conference having for its object the prevention of an outbreak of war in the Mediterranean.

The United States has consistently refused to become responsible, morally or otherwise, for the maintenance of peaceful relations among the powers of Europe. It has refused to become involved in European politics. It managed to escape the mischief that would have followed assumption of responsibility for the boundaries established at the Paris peace conference. It refused to stand as a guarantor of the safety of France against German aggression. It refused to accept a mandate over Armenia.

An attempt is made to draw an analogy between the four-power pact of the Pacific with the proposed Mediterranean pact. There is no analogy. The United States has possessions in the Pacific that would be affected by an outbreak of war in that ocean. It is very properly a party to a treaty that provides for consultation with the other interested powers in case of a threat against peace. But the United States has no interest in the Mediterranean, aside from the interest claimed by all nations to carry on commerce in that sea.

France and Italy are likely to clash over Jugoslavia, and they are also wrangling over conflicting claims in northern Africa. The United States does not propose to take sides in these quarrels. It intends to remain friendly with all the powers, but the moral obligation to remain friendly does not carry the further obligation of interceding among them or between them whenever they threaten to break the peace.

Many would-be peace promoters contend that the United States ought to join freely in international conferences and wield its influence for peace. The dangers lurking in such commitments ought to be apparent, especially after an attempt has been made to enlarge the moral obligations of the Kellogg pact.

No treaty proposing to include the United States in a group exercising overlordship over the Mediterranean can pass the Senate unless it has been decided that America shall hereafter mix in European politics and permit Europe to intermeddle in the politics of this hemisphere. There is no indication that the Senate or the people have abandoned their devotion to the Monroe Doctrine.

THE SUGAR TARIFF.

The Senate faces a vote on the sugar tariff today without having arrived at any practical plan by which protection can be afforded to the domestic producers. Senatorial addresses have ranged over the whole field of possibilities, from payment of a bounty to domestic producers to independence for the Philippines. But sentiment appears to be hopelessly divided. It is time for the Senate to face the concrete facts and shape its discussions along practical lines.

Only two possibilities of extending substantial protection to the domestic sugar producers have been advanced. One is the bounty scheme sponsored by Senator Borah, and the other is limitation of the amount of sugar that may be imported duty-free from the Philippines. Against Mr. Borah's plan there is the fundamental objection to giving any special interests access to funds in the United States Treasury. It is possible that the Senate with its coalition leadership might overcome that objection, but the chance for enactment of the bill containing the bounty clause would be slight in the House. Certainly special favors of this kind to the sugar industry would meet with disapproval from a vast majority of the people.

This leaves limitation of imports from the Philippines as the only practical method of dealing with the situation. If a higher duty is imposed on Cuban sugar, importation of duty-free sugar from the Philippines would be greatly increased. Such a duty would become a premium to the producers of sugar in the Philippines. The domestic producer would be left in the same predicament he is now in.

Only theoretical objections can be advanced against limitation of sugar imports from the Philippines. Satisfactory results could no doubt be obtained by placing that limitation sufficiently high as to not interfere with the present tonnage shipped to this country. This would not work a hardship on any Filipino producers. On the other hand, it would tend to arrest the development of an industry which threatens to preclude all possibility of Philippine independence. It would be the first practical step taken by Congress toward economic independence for the islands. No other method Congress has considered would have such far-reaching effects for the benefit of both the American sugar producers and the Filipino people as this proposed limitation.

GROWING PAINS IN CHINA.

Famine is again taking a dreadful toll in China. Reports of the China International Famine Relief say that 2,000,000 out of 6,000,000 persons in the Wei River district have died from hunger and cold in the last eight months, and that death awaits as many more before spring. The population is living on grass, sawdust, dried leaves, leather and anything else in which a semblance of nourishment can be found. In a last effort to provide heat, all the woodwork in the houses has been burned, yet thousands have frozen to death. The situation has been aggravated by the coldest weather experienced in that section within memory of the inhabitants.

The distressing angle of this famine is that there is no hope of amelioration. A survey of the stricken area has been made recently, but no remedy could be suggested. Difficulties of transporting large quantities of food into the region are almost insurmountable. If transportation facilities were available the food would be stolen by bandits before it reached the starving peasants. The people have been driven to banditry to satisfy their hunger. Repeated attempts have been made by Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, governor of Shenshi, to send food into the district without success.

Last April the American Red Cross sent a commission to China to investigate conditions before offering any further relief to the famine-stricken areas. That commission found that the prevalent destitution of the Chinese people is a cumulative result of the political and social chaos in that country. It was concluded that no foreign agency could deal with the situation adequately, and the Red Cross therefore refused to extend further aid.

China is suffering the travail which grips a nation in transition from feudalism to civilization. The people are hopelessly victimized by the war lords. The country is drained of its resources to carry on interminable warfare among these military chiefs. From the viewpoint of the relief agencies, China has become a bottomless bog into which all the charities of the world could be poured without any appreciable results. Starvation and suffering, ignorance and rapine will continue until a stable government arises and the millions under arms are diverted into peaceful occupations.

AN AMAZING LANGUAGE

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Only pedants deny a language the right to grow. Words which seem barbarisms one year become naturalized faster than immigrant humans can take on the color of their adopted lands. An appeal by the editor of the great Oxford New English Dictionary for early quotations of new words to be added to a supplement to the dictionary gives startling evidence of the newness and oldness of some words.

The list before us includes only one-fiftieth of the alphabet, that fraction between "carabideous" (whatever that may mean) and "ceppo" (of which we are equally ignorant), but it includes 401 words discovered by the editor since the 5,232 columns of the volume covering the letter C went to press in 1893, and some of them are already startlingly familiar. Some, of course, existed long before 1893, but had not been gathered into the lexicographer's net at that time; others have come into the language since. The editor gives the dates of his earliest quotations for each word, and invites evidence of their use earlier than the dates cited.

For "carbon paper" he gives the venerable authority of use in 1878; but for "card index" and "card catalogue" he stops at 1917. Surely a little research in American advertising files would carry him one decade, if not two, farther back. For "central heating" he has no earlier reference than 1921; possibly the phrase is newer than we who have so long been used to the fact realize. For "carry" in the sense of "print an article," which he says is an American usage, he gives the absurdly recent date of 1926; "carrying charges" he dates back to 1894. "Cat," as used in the phrase "not a cat's chance," he dates in 1927, which again is much too recent; but "catch out," as to catch in a mistake, he carries far back of the baseball days to which most Americans would attribute it, to 1815. Mr. McGeehan, who has made the phrase "cauliflower industry" familiar in America, might be interested to note that while his phrase has not yet, apparently, been accepted in Oxford, "cauliflower excrescence," which may or not mean in Oxford what he would mean by it, is dated back to 1855. "Censorable" is dated 1906; "catalyser," 1904; "cattleboat," 1889; "carpet slipper," 1906; "carefree," 1901; "catch question," 1860; "centuries old," 1908; "caterpillar car," meaning a tractor, 1915; "card up one's sleeve," 1898.

The secretary of the Clarendon Press at Oxford would be glad to receive full references to earlier uses of these words, preferably on slips six inches by four, and doubtless many who are curious about words will hasten to overwhelm him with earlier citations—it is a favorite sport of pedants in many lands to beat the N. E. D. in locating prior uses of English words. But for most of us the list will be most impressive in its evidence that in 35 years some 20,000 words or phrases—ten times the vocabulary of the "average man," as reckoned by the statisticians—have come into our language.

New York Sun: The American public has grown accustomed to beans, peas, beets, tomatoes and various other vegetables put up in cans, but that staple vegetable, the potato, has always been served fresh until this year. SINKING OBJECTS.

The United States Hydrographic Bureau has again felt called upon to make public a correction of the familiar belief that, owing to the increasing density of ocean water with increasing depth, sinking objects, after descending for a distance proportioned to the object's weight, go no farther, but hang suspended like Mahomet's tomb. The truth is that, once an object sinks, it continues to the bottom, provided, of course, there is nothing inherent in the object to change its size or weight, such as gases generated in a body, says the New Orleans Times Picayune. When a ship goes down she goes to the bottom. Water is so little compressible that, regardless of the pressure exerted upon it, it does not contract to a point where it will sustain objects normally heavier than itself. The bureau brought out the ancient truth as a "navigation hint" to reassure navigators and others that there's no danger of wrecks floating dangerously "just beneath the surface." If these float they float with a fraction of the material above the water level.

WORRY.

Oh, little does the worrying do,
Small good we gain by fretting,
'Twere better far for me and you
To cultivate forgetting.

Let's stir the fires of faith and keep
The coals of courage glowing,
And all the secret times we weep,
Let no one else be knowing.

The trifling cares that weigh us down
Are never eased by sighing;
A smile is braver than a frown,
And far more satisfying.

Oh, what if skies are dull today?
The sun may shine tomorrow;
Let's put the petty hurts away
And save our tears for sorrow.

Small good it does to fume and fret
And worry over trifles,
Too much of gloom, like ashes wet,
The fire of courage stifles.

Let's keep our brave hearts in repair,
Our faith the best of all things,
Stanch for the griefs that we must bear;
Not broken down by small things.

The Engines and Passengers Aren't to Blame When Two Trains Collide.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

UNLESS the future can no longer be judged by the past, boys and girls now in school will live to see another great war.

Women who bear sons this year are doing their part to provide the victims.

But daughters will be victims, also, both old and young, for the war will not be confined to trenches.

The "front" will include every city and town that can be reached by airplanes and destroyed by bombs.

It will be a war of extermination—a war without mercy—a war of desperation and despair, in which each side sees its own destruction daily draw nearer and yet fights on in a frenzy to destroy the other—a war of utter ruination.

These truths are known to all men, and yet nothing is done to avert the horror that threatens civilization.

There are treaties and pledges of peace, but the men who write and sign them know they are worthless and meaningless.

Childlike men, hoping for peace, make assurance of their hope and fool themselves with the belief that promises made in peace will prevent war when passions are hot; but every sane and practical man on earth knows in his heart that no treaty now in force is worth the paper on which it is written.

Men talk of national honor, but in war there is no honor or truth or virtue, but only baseness, treachery, lying, theft and brutality.

The nations are preparing for it—more feverishly than they prepared for the last one.

They talk of peace, but each doubts the sincerity of the other, and while they talk they build battleships and bombing planes and perfect poisonous gases.

Whose fault is it?

Who could stop it?

Those who have power to avert a disaster must bear the blame if it comes.

The men who have such power are statesmen and men of big business.

No war can come unless statesmen prepare the way for it; no war can be waged unless men of big business finance and equip it.

To say these men can not prevent war is childish—silly—idiotic.

They can do what they will to do.

They can prevent war as easily as rival business men can prevent price-cutting.

And since they have that power, theirs is the crime if war comes.

Is the man who provides the burglar's tools and profits by his thefts less guilty than the burglar?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Self-Expression" by Young Women Ought to Be Explained a Little. Too Much Cynicism in Modernist Female.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent talk to women and girls at the First Congregational Church, her subject being "I Want to Be Myself," Miss Margaret Slattery, of Boston, said:

"Be sure you're right and follow the truth; express not your natural self, but your cultivated self; respect the rights of others."

As a helpful generalization this advice is good; but, in so far as it carries the modernist implication that the women of yesterday were mentally infantile for want of self-expression, I think it is open to objection.

It seems to me that the reckless modern use of that term, "self-expression," is likely to do some harm. Its influence on girls still in their teens is not edifying when it is swallowed raw.

In the case of many of those who would feed it to us, their attitude is more or less openly cynical.

The advice to "express not your natural self, but your cultivated self" may mean one thing or another. Where it means that the girl in her self-expression, her independence, should hold fast to time-tried mental and moral attributes, it is safe.

But why persist in making "self-expression" the shibboleth of womanly independence? Such words as "self-respect" and "self-improvement" did not mean self-effacement when and where I was young. In its good sense we were directly and indirectly taught self-expression by the old-fashioned fireside, at Sunday schools, and in such reading as the poems of Whittier and Longfellow, Miss Alcott's "Little Women," Smiles' "Self Helps," and, in due time, Ralph Waldo Emerson, a sure-enough proponent of self-expression. Alexandria's Reasons for Getting Out of the District of Columbia and Why She Will Oppose Retrocession.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to indorse the letter of "Alexandrian" in yesterday's Post in which he protests against the retrocession to the District of Columbia of its former area in Virginia. The main reason for the retrocession to Virginia in 1846—in fact the reason but for which there would have been no retrocession—was that Alexandria could get no help from the United States in relieving herself of the debt she had incurred in building the Alexandria Canal. This debt was extremely burdensome because of suspended building operations on the Chesapeake & Ohio with which the Alexandria Canal connected. Considering the fact that this development of waterways was at that time of great national importance, it is hardly too much to say that the Government was close-fisted in failing to aid this then District town when its public spirited enterprise temporarily failed through no fault of its own. It is not surprising that, in view of the Virginia Legislature's extension of assistance, retrocession followed at Alexandria's request.

A similar reason to that which then caused retrocession to Virginia stands against retrocession back to the District of Columbia now.

At the present time the United States allows itself to pay only $9,000,000 as a District taxpayer. That is about one-fifth what it should be, so that it is still fair to say that the Government is not extravagantly open-handed in its relationship to the District.

It is within the bounds of possibility that Alexandria may yet become a part of the District. In case she ever does, my advice is that she first have incorporated in the retrocession act an ironclad provision for the equitable apportionment of taxation between the national Government and the municipality.

ANOTHER ALEXANDRIAN.

Charm of Washington Will Be Promoted by Diversified Architecture Rather Than Dead Classical Monotony.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent letter I had something to say about municipal art, protesting against unrelieved architectural uniformity. Thereto I would like to add a word.

Edgar Allan Poe asserted that there is no such thing as a long poem, properly speaking. In his view a poem is not a finished work of art if it can not be clearly envisaged in the mind's eye in a single reading. An epic may be divided into a number of short poems, although as a whole it can not be fitly enjoyed in the time limit of the poetic mood.

The principle here involved applies to the architectural beautifying of a city.

For instance, let a bird's-eye view of Washington from some convenient vantage point stand for the lengthy poem. The sensation it induces will be pleasant. But the effect will be much like that of a bird's-eye view of any other city.

In order to fully comprehend its special charm a hundred limited views will be necessary; limited, that is, to what might be called the clean-cut, close-up esthetic range of the human eye.

In the vast city of the future conspicuous architectural contrasts will be essential if both charm and perfection of municipal art are the aim.

CRITIC.

Accuses Poor Old Bill Hard as a British Propagandist—Well, Tune Him Out.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is noted that Mr. William Hard has been selected by the British Broadcasting Corporation to present to the American radio audience the proceedings of the London naval conference.

As Mr. Hard is thoroughly British in thought, it looks as if the people of the United States are in for a large dose of British propaganda. No doubt we shall hear a great deal about the stubbornness of our naval officers and the utter wickedness of the French. Again the British are in charge of publicity. T. T. FITTS.

GEN. SMUTS LEAVES WASHINGTON TODAY

South African to Stop in Three Cities Before He Sails for England.

ATTENDS RACIAL PARLEY

Packing every possible activity into the final hours of his stay in the United States, Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, South African soldier and former premier, will leave Washington this morning for brief stops in Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. He is due to sail for England tomorrow.

Before sailing Gen. Smuts will deliver speeches in Baltimore and Philadelphia, on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the League of Nations, and will possibly deliver a brief farewell talk in New York. While in Philadelphia he will be honored with the degree of doctor of laws by Johns Hopkins University.

Gen. Smuts attended a conference at Howard University yesterday afternoon between white and colored educators, at which he was given the opportunity to study racial problems in the United States. He gave a lucid account of the problems existing between whites and blacks in his own country. Last night the general was the guest of honor at a reception at the British Embassy.

During his three-day stay here, Gen. Smuts made two speeches, one at the Metropolitan Club and the other at the Washington Hotel as the guest of the Cause and Cure of War Conference. The theme of both addresses was world peace and how that objective may be brought about by the conference system, as embraced in the League of Nations.

His other activities here included a conference with President Hoover, meeting members of the Senate and House of Representatives, a visit to the tomb of Woodrow Wilson and a visit to Mount Vernon. He was feted at numerous luncheons and dinners.

The general will make a brief visit in England before sailing for South Africa for the opening of parliament in Cape Town next month.

Daley Made President Of Military Engineers

Lieut. Col. E. L. Daley was elected president of the Washington Post, Society of American Military Engineers, at its annual meeting and luncheon held yesterday in the Army and Navy Club. Other officers are John B. Gordon, vice president; Lieut. Victor Martin, secretary-treasurer; Maj. William O. Tufts, director, and Maj. Dwight F. Johns, who continues as a director. The new president is a West Pointer '06, and served in the Philippines, on the Mexican border and in France.

Philip P. Gott, assistant manager of the trade association department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was the guest speaker, talking on "The National Business Survey Conference."

Lions Club Luncheon Told of Income Tax

Workings of the Federal income tax law were explained by John Simon, certified public accountant, in a talk yesterday before the Washington Lions Club meeting in the Hotel Mayflower. Mr. Simon explained the fundamental principles of the statute and answered many questions concerning its application.

His address also touched on the subject of accountancy in line with the club's program for regular "profession talks" by the members. Alfred H. Lawson presided.

RETIREMENT BILL PASSAGE PREDICTED

witness at the hearing, made a plea for extension of the retirement benefits to all per diem employes of the District of Columbia.

Following him, Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, auditor of the District, offered an amendment to the bill providing that all per diem employes in a continuous employment status be eligible for retirement, subject to approval of the District Commissioners.

The trouble now, Maj. Donovan said, is that while there are between 5,000 and 6,000 per diem employes on the job in the open season, only about 3,000 are employed in the winter.

Representative Gibson (Republican), of Vermont, objected to the provision giving the Commissioners power to decide what class of employes shall be eligible for retirement, and Maj. Donovan agreed to its elimination.

If the amendment is to go into the law, however, it will have to be one of those embodied in the bill that Chairman Lehlbach plans to introduce later in the session.

Among the others who appeared before the committee yesterday were Thomas F. Flaherty, Edward J. Gainer, M. L. Finnan and W. M. Collins, representing various groups of postal employes; N. P. Alifas, representing the employes at the various Navy yards and arsenals; C. P. Franciscas, W. R. Leath, E. W. Smiser, Francis Black, William H. Haycock, Harry F. Polger, James V. The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

CAN it be possible that someone has gone back and gotten the last presidential campaign and placed it in front of Oliver D. Street, Republican national committeeman from Alabama? It certainly seems to be standing there before him, an insurmountable barrier to his ambitions.

Mr. Street is such a mild mannered and politically adept fellow, too, that this would seem to be a shame.

But it is a fact that a few weeks ago Mr. Street was reputed to be carrying around in his pocket, as they say in politics, the Federal judgeship vacated by the death of Judge Clayton. There were other aspirants for the place, but they were half-hearted and their friends laughed at them, nudged them in the ribs and said: "Don't you know Street has that in his pocket?"

* * * *

NO one, indeed, sought to challenge the statement that the place would go to Street himself. There are said to be no doubt of his qualifications, and isn't he the Republican boss of Tom Heflin's State?

But strangely enough, Street's nomination has never turned up at the Capitol. It is said, in fact, to be pretty well halted in the Department of Justcie.

It is not believed that there can be more than one reason, though, of course, there may be more. But the one reason which is heard in political circles is that it was Mr. Street's activity in the last campaign that now stands in his way.

MR. STREET, it will be recalled, made no bones about the circulation of anti-Catholic literature in his State. When the matter came to national notice, Chairman Work, of the Republican national committee, slapped him on the wrist and told him he should not do that.

The Republican high moguls did not approve of that, at all, Dr. Work said. The campaign was to be determined on the issue of happiness and the abolishment of poverty, that and nothing else.

But did Mr. Street quit? No, he figuratively thumbed his nose at Dr. Work and observed that the latter might be a pretty good doctor of national politics but that he knew his Alabama crackers. And, of course, Mr. Street did.

* * * *

WELL, of course, that campaign has gone and Mr. Smith is in the building business. But if Mr. Street's name ever comes out of that Department of Justice there will be a lot of talk, and if there is one thing sure and certain it is that the present administration does not like to be talked about.

However, Mr. Street probably considers that something must be done about and for him, the Republican boss. It is not unlikely that the outcome may have a bearing on the fortunes of another one of Mr. Street's ilk, Senator Tom Heflin, to be exact. Because, if Street does not get the judgeship it will show the foolhardiness of the business he engaged in.

Twenty thousand years ago Senator Moses said: "Virtue that hath no reward is not virtue."

ROLLING EARTHQUAKE STIRS WIDE AREAS IN CALIFORNIA

showed a distinct, northeast and motion. Flagpoles on tall buildings southwest sway. No excitement was caused in the city or its environs, among a population inured to earth movements resulting from not infrequent slight slippings of the several Southern California geological faults.

The quake was not felt in Santa Barbara, where in May, 1925, a serious quake occurred, nor in the Owens Valley, site of Los Angeles City's main water supply.

The Imperial Valley, where the border city of Calexico experienced a damaging quake in 1924, also was free of today's seismological visitation, although the shocks extended without marked intensity into the neighboring Coachella Valley just to the west.

Indio and Niland, near Salton Sea, reported the quake.

The Mojave Desert, north of Cajon Pass in the San Bernadino Mountain range, appeared to have borne the brunt of the shocks without damage. Barstow suffered a rather rugged shaking, as did Ludlow, 50 miles to the east. Communication lines remained intact.

In Pomona some dismay was caused when the first shock, which was the stronger of the two, put most of the city's telephones out of commission for a brief time. Service was restored quickly.

The shocks were felt generally throughout the San Bernardino Valley, the initial shake being of sufficient intensity to cause an exodus of persons into the street in the business section of San Bernardino.

Riverside and surrounding territory also appeared to be within the central focus of the earth movement, with shocks more severe than those felt farther to the south.

Beaumont and Banning, in San Gorgonio Pass, the entrance to the Coachella and Imperial Valleys, were distinctly shaken.

In the Los Angeles area the quakes were felt in nearly all outlying districts, apparently tapering off in intensity at coast points. Redondo Beach and Long Beach reported shakes of no great severity.

To the south, in San Diego, the movement appeared to have been tempered to such an extent as to cause little comment or attract little notice in that city, although persons in business buildings felt them distinctly.

In the Lake Arrowhead region of the San Bernardino Mountains the shocks were felt as sharp jolts. In the foothills of Altadena, above Pasadena, the intensity and sharpness appeared greater than in lower sections.

PARROT EMBARGO BEING CONSIDERED

DATA ARE VERY MEAGER

(Associated Press.)

The first official reports on deaths and serious illnesses due to parrot's fever or psittacosis in widely separated cities reached Federal health officials yesterday and led them to give further consideration to placing an embargo on importation of the birds.

The reports were meager, and did not cover 1 new death and 2 suspected cases reported unofficially yesterday, nor all of the 8 deaths and 47 cases that public health officers said they had information about. They brought information, however, that is expected to aid in tracing the origin of the outbreak.

Surgeon Gen. Cumming called in Dr. T. S. Palmer, assistant director of the Bureau of Biological Survey, for what was understood to be a conference on means of banning the birds. It was said later, however, that no steps in that direction would be taken immediately.

Dr. Palmer said after the conference that "a most effective embargo already has been placed on importations by press reports of the spread of the disease."

Not one parrot has been imported from South America during the last 30 days, added Dr. Palmer, and the only shipment of which clews are sufficiently definite to connect illnesses was one of 289 parrots that arrived on December 3 from the port of Cartegena, Colombia.

City Health Commissioner Wynn, of New York, reported yesterday that sales of birds in this shipment have been recorded for the following points: Centralia, Pa.; Portland, Me.; Hartford, Conn., and Detroit.

Col. Kenyon Elected Bar Association Head

Col. J. Miller Kenyon, well known attorney, was elected president of the Washington Bar Association Tuesday night at its annual meeting in which the organization, through its directorate, went on record urging adoption of a pending bill by Congress for appointment of two additional judges to the District bench. They advocated appointment of Washington lawyers.

In addition to Col. Kenyon, who succeeded Maj. Julius I. Peyser, the group elected Charles W. Arth, first vice president; Paul B. Cromlein, second vice president; William W. Millan, treasurer for the eighteenth term, and George C. Gertman, secretary for the twelfth term. Lucian H. Vandoren, Paul E. Lesh and Samuel McComas Hawkin were elected to the board of directors.

Land Purchase Measure Is Favorably Reported

The House committee on public buildings and grounds yesterday favorably reported a bill authorizing the Secretary of Commerce to purchase 17 acres of additional land for the Bureau of Standards, at a cost not to exceed $400,000.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

British Envoy Is Dinner Host To Gen. Smuts

By JEAN ELIOT.

A BRILLIANT climax to the round of official entertaining for an unofficial visitor, Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, soldier, statesman and former Premier of South Africa, was the reception given last night by the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard. Preceding the reception, Sir Esme and Lady Isabella Howard entertained a large company of distinguished guests at a dinner in honor of Gen. Smuts, and earlier in the day he was a guest of President Hoover at luncheon at the White House.

Between 200 and 300 guests attended the British Embassy reception, with diplomatic, official and resident society represented in happy proportion. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war time President, was a guest at this fete as at the dinner which preceded it. Gen. Smuts was a good friend and remains an ardent admirer of President Wilson, with whom he was associated at the Versailles Peace Conference in the fight for the League of Nations.

The company at dinner included also the Belgian Ambassador, Prince de Ligne; the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon; the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, the Canadian Minister and Mrs. Massey, the South African Minister and Mrs. Louw, the Acting Secretary of State, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, the Acting Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, the Solicitor General and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, jr.

At President Hoover's luncheon for Gen. Smuts the guests were all men. The group included the Secretary of War, Mr. Patrick J. The artists, Beniamino Gigli and Nina Verez-Dancereau, sang to a distinguished audience, many diplomatic, congressional and resident members of society being noted in the groups. Junior League Girls Shine in Opera Troupe

Cast Contains Several College Graduates Who Star.

Presumably the members of the American Opera Company would resent being dubbed a "Social Register cast." They are entirely professional in their attitude toward their work in presenting grand opera in English for American consumption, with a thrilling modern note in the presentation. But there are a half dozen Junior League girls in the company and most of the men in the cast are university graduates.

Miss Harriet Eells, who will sing the role of Vittia Pisani in the new American opera, "Yolanda of Cyprus," to be given at Polt's Theater next Monday evening, was one of the most prominent members of the Junior League in Cleveland, Ohio, before making her debut in the world of music. Miss Edith Piper, who sings the role of Queen Berengare in the new opera, is another Junior Leaguer, active in her home city, St. Louis. Miss Doreen Davidson, who appears in the role of Maga in the new opera, is a direct descendant of Sir Walter Scott, through her mother who was an Elliot.

Miss Natalie Hall and Miss Bettina Hall, sisters, who will be heard in the title roles of "Yolanda of Cyprus" and "Carmen," respectively, are descendants of Mayflower settlers. Their musical careers have been sponsored by Mrs. Mary Ames, sister of Winthrop Ames, and Mrs. Louis Frothingham, of Massachusetts, home of the Hall girls.

Nor is social prominence confined to the fair sex in the company. Mr. Peter Chambers, who has a prominent part in the organization, is a nephew of Robert W. Chambers and a son-in-law of Owen Johnson, both famous as novelists. Mrs. Chambers, who has a job in the organization and of the company, was the beautiful Olivia Johnson before her marriage. Mr. Chambers was graduated from Yale in 1922 and worked for a while with Sir Wilfred Grenfell at his famous mission in Labrador.

Mr. Charles Kullman, another Yale man, has made a veritable sensation as a leading tenor with the American Opera Company. Other prominent university men are: Mr. Williard Schindler Stanford, '24, whose major role is Escamillo in "Carmen;" Mr. Clifford Newdall, who sings the role of the young Faust, a University of Washington man, and Mr. Howard Laramy, who will be heard as Yamadori in "Madame Butterfly," and who claims University of Minnesota as his alma mater.

Representative and Mrs. Allen T. Treadway gave a dinner last evening at their residence, having as guests Representative and Mrs. George R. Stobbs, Representative and Mrs. Fletcher Hale, Representative and Mrs. Joe Crail, Mr. Edmund Platt, vice governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Mrs. Platt and Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. George R. Farnum.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis Armstrong left for Palm Beach recently in their yacht and will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Kroger. Before her marriage a few weeks ago Mrs. Armstrong was Mrs. Marthena Harrison Williams, referred to by her friends as the "White House baby." She is the granddaughter of the late President Benjamin Harrison.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

AN exquisitely smart blouse that is youthful as it is versatile. It is surprisingly wearable, too, for everywhere at fashionable rendezvous, this charming model in bolero effect of sheer metal cloth is being worn with the sheer velvet or satin crepe skirt that usually dips its hem to make it quite formal.

It shows chic femininity that is so important in the mode, in shirred shoulders and flaring sleeves that are caught in with cuff bands at the wrists. The sleeves are left opened part way above the wrists and finished with binding. The binding and cuff bands may be of self-fabric or of the material used for skirt.

The lower edge of the blouse is gathered into a band to give smooth trim fit through the hips.

You can have it. Two hours of your time and 2¼ yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 20-inch contrasting and 3¼ yards of binding is all that is required for the medium size.

Style No. 8237 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Eggshell satin crepe with lower left side below bolero cut from the dull surface, which is also used for hip yoke, cuff bands and binding, is delightfully smart, and may be worn for afternoon or with tweed or suede broadcloth jacket suit.

COLDER WEATHER COMING!

Here's complete protection for your car in only 2 minutes

No Special overhauling or service charges!
Just SURE protection with Denatured Alcohol

THE weather man's warning you, car owners! Colder weather's on the way, he says . . . and you know what a freeze-up does to a motor.

You're going to guard against it, of course . . . but how? Here's the simplest way . . . the surest . . . the safest . . . and by far the cheapest!

Just take two minutes between now and the time you put your car away. Drive to the nearest garage or filling station that displays the orange and green sign. Tell the man you want Denatured Alcohol. Watch him consult a chart, put in the exact amount your car needs, and test the solution for you . . .

Then . . . 96 seconds after you drive in . . . away you go . . . fully protected.

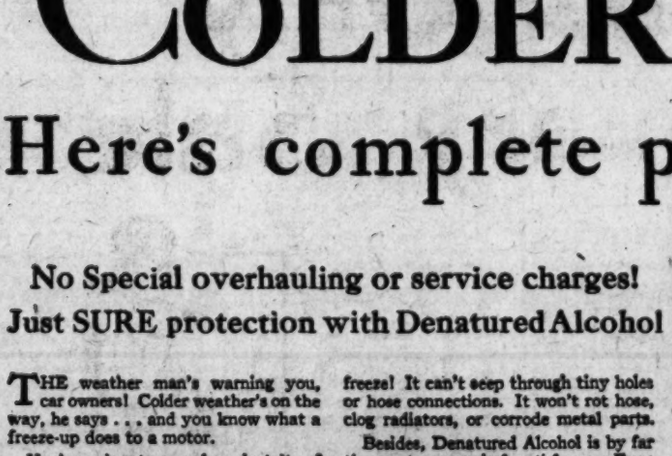
No special overhauling is necessary when you rely on this trustworthy anti-freeze! It can't seep through tiny holes or hose connections. It won't rot hose, clog radiators, or corrode metal parts.

Besides, Denatured Alcohol is by far the most economical anti-freeze. Even in the severest climate, you usually won't spend more than one-half as much for a whole season's supply as you would for one filling of substitutes.

Denatured Alcohol is backed by more than 20 years of successful and satisfactory use. It is approved by all car manufacturers and universally endorsed by all makers of automobile radiators.

Yes, winter's coming! Protect your car . . . but with safety for that costly motor! Rely on Denatured Alcohol, the dependable anti-freeze.

The Industrial Alcohol Institute, Inc., Graybar Building, New York City.



O. K. SAY GARAGE MEN! Here's how the Alco-Tester works. Just squeeze the bulb and it tells you instantly if there's enough Denatured Alcohol in your radiator. Have it done if there's a doubt in your mind. Any garage man will gladly do it without charge. It's the one safe way to banish costly repair bills and it means complete protection. Look for the orange and green sign at the first warning of winter.

JUST A SAMPLE OF WHAT'S COMING! This interesting picture was snapped on the corner of Broadway and 44th Street, New York City, during a heavy snow storm and it gives you a pretty good idea of the weather that's due soon. No wonder the weather man has issued a warning . . . better get that radiator filled up with some Denatured Alcohol and play safe. Denatured Alcohol, you know, is the only anti-freeze that both automobile and radiator manufacturers universally approve. It can't affect either rubber or metal. Can't lead to "gummy", sluggish motors . . . or expensive springtime motor troubles. Have some put in today at the nearest garage or filling station. There you can get complete protection in less than 2 minutes. It's mighty cheap insurance.

THE WAY OF WISE MEN. He knows how to be sure his car is protected! He has stopped for a minute or so at the place he usually buys gas. The attendant is simply pouring Denatured Alcohol into his radiator. No superfluous service is necessary . . . no special tightening up. Just add Denatured Alcohol, check with the Alco-Tester . . . and there you are.

SIX INDISPUTABLE FACTS

You've heard a lot about anti-freezes. Here are the real facts in the case . . . the indisputable reasons why more motorists use Denatured Alcohol than all other anti-freezes combined.

1. An entire season's supply of Denatured Alcohol usually costs less than half as much as one filling of some preparations.
2. Denatured Alcohol is harmless to radiators, engines and electrical systems. It will not corrode metal parts or attack rubber hose and does not cause leaks.
3. No special service is required to make your car ready for winter. Just put Denatured Alcohol in your radiator as it is.
4. Every car manufacturer approves Denatured Alcohol, and the firm that made your radiator is also emphatic in its endorsement.
5. If your protective solution is lost through accident or carelessness, the cost of replacement with Denatured Alcohol is usually one-sixth that of replacement with some preparations.
6. You can get Denatured Alcohol anywhere, anytime. Service when you need it, wherever you are.

Use DENATURED ALCOHOL . . . Safest, Cheapest Anti-Freeze

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IT was difficult to realize, hearing M. E. ("Deac") Aylesworth banging away at the senators yesterday at the Couzens hearings, that up to three years ago he had hardly seen a radio set. The fastest talking witness yet heard, Aylesworth's speed almost equaled that of Billy Sunday, who hung up a new record on the air recently.

Hardly less remarkable was the rapidity and neatness with which he dispatched the senators' troublesome queries. He has three or four scouts looking out for him in Washington, but revealed yesterday that he was plenty able to take care of himself and had lost none of the finesse which he acquired handling the legislative affairs of the National Electric Light Association.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, told Mr. Aylesworth that William Hard, who will announce the London naval parley proceedings for the NBC from London, had expressed partisan views in his recent political talks. Senator Brookhart declared that Hard had backed the administration all the way through.

Mr. Aylesworth replied that Hard was not supposed to represent the NBC viewpoint or his own, but was expected to represent fairly all issues, and offered to investigate the matter. In response to a question as to Hard's broadcasting salary, he said it was $100 a week.

By way of convincing the senators of his nonpartisanship, Mr. Aylesworth said that as head of the National Broadcasting Co., he couldn't "even be a Republican any more" and had to forget his political affiliations in order to treat Democrats, Republicans and the rest alike.

AS an example of how he was endeavoring to serve the public, Aylesworth said that a commercial hour had been canceled tonight to make way for the speech by Charles E. Hughes about the "Permanent Court of International Relations," at a cost of $5,700, with the N. B. C. footing the bill.

"You'll probably hear from Jim Reed on that," Senator Brookhart retorted.

The senators showed keen interest in why Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein jumped from the N. B. C. to Columbia with his business talks.

"Why should a Government official favor one chain to the exclusion of the other any more than he would favor any particular newspaper?" Senator Couzens inquired. "Does he get paid for these talks?"

"We have never paid any Government speaker," Mr. Aylesworth replied.

Senator Couzens expressed surprise when Aylesworth said the average time on a station allotted to chain programs was only about three hours. He added, in exasperation:

"What I am complaining about is I find the same damned program all over the dial."

When C. W. Horn, chief engineer of the N. B. C., called in to answer a technical question, told of a "beat note" interference on Station WEAF in New York, which he said might come from a foreign station, Senator Brookhart commented:

THE following appeared in a press bulletin from Station WLW at Cincinnati:

GOD SAVE THE KING!

WLW will carry the address of King George V of England, Tuesday, January 21, from 6 a. m. until 8 p. m.

"DOES Deems Taylor call 'Brighten the Corner Where You Are' a hymn?" Judge Ira E. Robinson, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, asks. This was apropos the judge's contention that the people would rather listen to a good, old-fashioned hymn in preference to 95 per cent of the music now being broadcast.

Mr. Taylor had retorted by asking if he is to understand from Judge Robinson's assertion that the radio audience preferred listening to "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" rather than to the Philadelphia Orchestra and similar attractions.

"I don't consider 'Brighten the Corner Where You Are' a hymn and never did," the judge continued.

"How about 'The Old Rugged Cross?' the radio chairman was asked.

"That is in the revival class, too!" he replied.

JUSTICE AARON J. LEVY, presiding at the $100 a plate dinner of the National Hebrew Orphans Home in New York, must have been as much surprised as the radio audience at an expression of gratitude by one of the orphans. Justice Levy had previously remarked that these orphans were not able to speak for themselves, but evidently he did not count on the boy who was soon to follow.

He sounded over the air as if he might have been 13 or 14 years old, but when it came to an oration this young man eclipsed any previous speaker, and his touching reference to his mother and father and those who had since cared for him surely must have tugged at the heartstrings of the diners present, as well as those listening from afar.

It now develops that Edward W. Bok, before his death in Florida, set aside a fund to provide concerts by the Philadelphia Orchestra to be broadcasts during school hours for pupils in the United States and Canada.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Do not expect too much from Providence on this day—depend upon yourself! There will be many vexations, but few, if any, real troubles are augured. Push your plans, and keep a stiff upper lip—patience and courage are all that is needed.

The child born on this January 16 will be impulsive, full of gaiety and life, sometimes self-willed, even obstinate. When crossed it will show flashes of anger, for which it will be sorry soon after. It will be kind-hearted, frank and mischievous.

You have an ever-active brain, a factor which keeps youth on its throne, and you will remain young to the day of your death. Your mind will never suffer from the fatty degeneration of disuse; you keep it exercised, alert and resilient. You enjoy the fight and fun of life, and you have the courage to take a toss and mount again on the same spot. You do not court danger, or step into a snare out of sheer devilry, but when you come face to face with trouble, you neither lose your head or nerve. You are a plucky fighter, whether it be with brain or brawn.

You display a great deal of ingenuity in your work, and it is not often that you tackle anything which you can not do, and do well. You have a great deal of patience, and you often win out because of your persistent efforts. It takes a great deal to discourage you.

You like good books and the society of cultured and refined people. You are a good conversationalist, but it does not bore you to listen to others. You are affable, pleasant and diplomatic and seldom allow any perturbation to show on the surface. Your love is deep-seated and your happiness demands an adequate return of affection.

Successful people born January 16:

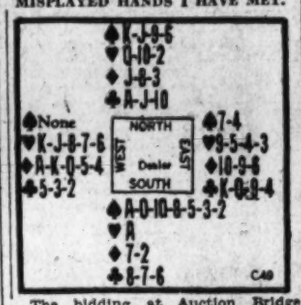
WORK'S BRIDGE

BRIDGERS.
Important Notice!

Beginning Monday, January 27, Mr. Milton C. Work, the international authority, will conduct in this department for two weeks a great Home Bridge Contest. You will find it of intense interest and wonderfully instructive. It will enable you to test and increase your knowledge of Auction and Contract and contest informally with members of your household and friends. Remember the date—January 27th. Challenge your friends.

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



The bidding at Auction Bridge would be: South one Spade or three Spades; in the former case West probably would bid Hearts or Diamonds and be supported by East, so that North and South would have to bid up to four Spades to obtain the contract.

At Contract, South would start by bidding two Spades; West probably would bid three Hearts or three Diamonds; and North then would bid four Spades. It is not likely that either East or West would dare to bid five.

Playing at four Spades, West led three rounds of Diamonds. The Declarer trumped the third and led two rounds of trumps, winning the second in closed hand, and then tried the Club finesse. East won with the King (a false card) and led a Heart which South won and tried a second Club finesse which also lost. So Declarer lost two Diamonds and two Clubs and failed to go game.

He complained bitterly about his hard luck. Was it hard luck?

THE CORRECT PLAY

The answer is that if the Declarer had combined good play with the good luck he had in holding the cards he did his game was assured. To trick 4 he should have led the Ace of trumps from closed hand; to trick 5, the Ace of Hearts; trick 6 should have been a trump won in dummy; trick 7 a heart led from dummy and ruffed in closed hand; trick 8 another trump won in dummy; and trick 9 another Heart ruffed in closed hand. With seven tricks secured and all Hearts and Diamonds eliminated from Declarer's two hands, South should have led a Club, and if West played small, finessed in dummy without caring about the location of the adverse high Clubs or any other cards. This must produce game. East, winning that trick, must return a Club up to dummy, thereby ensuring Declarer two Club tricks; or must lead a card on which Declarer can discard a losing club from one hand and ruff in the other.

Lanvin INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Jan. 15.

"C'EST le seul petit cote desagreable de cette mode." What is? Well, it seems that, according to that writer, and whoever it was showed an unusual perspicacity for a mere fashion writer, women who have gone for any length of time without corsets, due to the modes of the past few years, have acquired a disagreeable "spread" in the back, which shows up not well with the natural waistline of the very new modes.

From every other angle the natural waistline is not bad—but directly in the back, well, pay attention to whether or not you can get away with it!

For those of us who can not, kindly fashion offers other effects, which only hint at the natural waistline or else don't at all, and then offers flounces, lines and what nots in the way a garment is cut, to literally make a woman "seem like what she ain't"—rear view.

And who cares?

* * * *

Save your empty coffee cans—we have something to do with them! Well, now, let's see—first you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet—then you find that with seven one-pound coffee cans you can make an adorable footstool, and with the two-pound cans and lots of "stuffings" you can assemble a de-e-e-elightful gadget to sit on. With a modernistic design, for instance.

That isn't all we tell you how to make in the leaflet, either—but that's interesting enough to tell you today.

Boit de Chapeaux.

All the hats of this winter are a bit larger than those of last winter, even the cloche. And in general have an air of richness beyond that of last season's.

For instance, velvet hats and many in velvet and felt artistically combined, are worn even with the simplest and most severe tailleurs.

* * * *

Jenny chic quite elegantly expresses itself in this dark blue marocain skirt and jacquette, with a lovely white crepe de chine blouse. The sleeves are pleated and stitched down flat, and both the body of the jacquette and the skirt follow this pleating effect, but they are stitched down only part way.

And then on the belt is green, red and yellow, just the tiniest touch—while on the shoulder of the jacquette is the tiniest touch of white.

The Couturiers.

Ardanse. Yvonne Davidson was long knbwn as a Paris couturiere with a flare not only for the chic, but the practical. Lately she has allied herself with Ardanse. This name is pronounced "ar-danz," with a slight accent on the last syllable.

And here's that reminder again—the weekly Dare fashion letter is in The Sunday Washington Post each Sunday.

Au revoir!

Behind the Screens

By NELSON B. BELL

SINCE last Monday morning I have been right roundly berated by various of the more virulent Barrymore fans for not having gone overboard in a raging sea of superlatives over the rhapsodic qualities of "General Crack," current at the Metropolitan.

While I am not at all certain that there is concealed upon the keyboard of my typewriter any more laudatory review than was accorded "General Crack," I am of the impression that there are finer vehicles to be had for the transcendent gifts of the younger Barrymore.

"Crack" is a flamboyant, swashbuckling melodrama—disguised somewhat by the picturesque habiliments of medieval court life—that paints its canvases in broad sweeps of the brush and bludgeons home its points with sledge-hammer blows. There is not much about it that savors of subtlety or the manifestation of any of the finer instincts with which the human heart is supposed to be endowed. It may be better entertainment on that account, but most assuredly it is not better drama, nor, by the same token, the best possible medium for the screen exploitation of an actor whose capabilities encompass a much wider scope than they are here afforded.

You will go a long way and wait a long time for another picture as generally satisfying as this—and it was my intention to convey that thought in Monday's review—but I am nevertheless of the confirmed belief that some day somebody will supply John Barrymore with a picture as good as he is himself.

And when that is done, verily will ye have something!

Mixed in among those deeming my praise not lavish enough are, happily, communications of a slightly different tenor, like the one from which these excerpts are quoted:

"Dear sir: I have just read with much pleasure your excellent criticism of Mr. Barrymore and General Crack. I heartily concur with what you have to say in same.....I see you make mention of my brother, R. D. MacLean, as the Cardinal. It was just a mere bit he played. He very seldom appears in the pictures. For the last five years he has been the star out there in the Mission Play and lately also appeared as Richard III and Falstaff in the Shakespeare Poundtion all-star cast. Truly yours,

(Signed) A. M. SHEPHERD."

Mr. MacLean is remembered by many Washington friends for many splendid performances, one of the most notable, perhaps, having been in William Faversham's all-star revival some years ago of "Julius Caesar," in which, in addition to Faversham and Mr. MacLean, Fuller Mellish and Frank Keenan were prominently cast.

Apparently reliable advices indicate Tom Mix to have completed his purely personal business in the Capital with a call at one of the Government departments yesterday afternoon, after a visit of three or four days during which he spent part of the time in his suite at the Mayflower nursing an arm that required a sling.

While the nature of the Mix meanderings has been confided to this column, they do not concern anything that will ever find its way upon a screen, so even with Tony's costar again headed for the wide open spaces, we shall, of course, respect a confidence.

"The Phantom of the Opera," that mammoth Universal production which as a silent drama afforded Lon Chaney one of his most colorful and most impressive vehicles, has been reissued in a completely refurbished state and will be the attraction at the Rialto week after next—beginning January 24, to be exact.

While the new form of "The Phantom" may not literally be termed an all-talkie, there are dialogue passages scattered throughout its length, with occasional bursts of song and all of the opera scenes and ballets executed in natural color.

The original cast, which now has been given voice—even including Mr. Chaney, as far as the layman will ever know—it will be remembered, includes Norman Kerry and Mary Philbin, among numerous others.

The new version has already been previewed at the Rialto and has thrown the boys into a violent attack of ecstasies.

Sorry to have missed a call from Joe Rivkin, of Pathe's home office publicity staff, who has been locally prevalent for the last few days in behalf of "His First Command," starring big Bill Boyd. Mr. Rivkin is also personal representative of Sally O'Neil, Fay Marbe and others of note in Hollywood.

Unless there is some eleventh-hour yanking and substituting of feature attractions, the salons of the cinema will present the following during the week that impends: Palace, Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery, in "Their Own Desire;" RKO-Keith's Jack Oakie and Polly Walker, in "Hit the Deck;" Rialto, William Boyd and Dorothy Sebastian, in "His First Command;" Earle, Charlotte Greenwood, in "So Long, Letty;" Fox, Lois Moran, in "The Song of Kentucky;" Metropolitan, John Barrymore, in "General Crack," second week; Columbia, Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, in "The Love Parade."

There is, of course, just an outside chance that somebody may have some a half-pint or so of what Stepin Fetchit terms "panther sweat" before he saw that panther.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATMENT OF PELLAGRA.

R. D. writes: Please write on pellagra. Is liver an essenial in treating the disease and, if so, why? Are there any books on the subject which a layman can understand?

REPLY.

In those aspects of the pellagra question in which lay people are practically interested the public health people are in accord, though they do disagree about some other parts of the field. They are agreed that diet is most important in causing the disease and, likewise, in curing it. They are agreed that people who diet properly along certain lines do not develop pellagra. Those who fail to eat properly are liable to develop the disease.

A large proportion of those who develop pellagra can be cured, using the word in the ordinary sense, by diet. Not much else is needed for cure. The food which is of greatest value in both prevention and cure is yeast. Yeast is now available in many forms. It can be had as dried yeast in sacks and, in fact, several health departments carry it that way. Or it can be had in packages. Both dried and liquid yeasts are of service. It can be made into soups and it can be eaten on sandwiches and as meat substitutes. There are many recipes for yeast dishes. It is available as a confection. Any housewife who knows how to grow yeast for bread making can grow yeast as a pellagra preventive or cure.

The scientists have shown us how to autolyse or dissolve. Next in rank comes good, lean meat. Not much of the anti-pellagra substance is contained in fats, neither the fats of meats, cream, butter nor plants. Various vegetables supply a moderate amount of pellagra prevention substance.

The diets which are most productive of this disease are those which supply energy principally through the medium of sugars, and especially of molasses and fats and particularly of fat meats. In so far as pellagrins are apt to be anemic, liver may have a place in its treatment, but it is one of secondary importance.

The several symptoms which characterize the disease or which complicate it may call for medicines, but again, this is of secondary importance. The business of the doctor in treating a case of pellagra, is that of a pilot keeping the ship in the channel rather than that of a machinist oiling machinery or a stoker feeding fires.

There are books and booklets on the subject. Some are diet books and contain recipes. The United States Public Health Service has produced most of these. Health departments have some.

AUDIENCE APPLAUDS GIGLI AT MUSICALE

SOPRANO AIDS PROGRAM

Beniamino Gigli, renowned tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was the stellar attraction yesterday at Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's forty-first musical morning at the Hotel Mayflower. The audience responded with frequent ovations to Gigli's singing of a comprehensive program with emotional intensity, tonal beauty and sustained power. The tenor sang all his numbers with the finish and refinement with which he always invests his vocal presentations and in the operatic selections a concert audience came to realize how his great success in opera roles had been won.

Particularly was this true in his singing of the aria, "Oh Paradise," from "L'Africaine," by Meyerbeer, and the Caruso famous "Vesti la Giuabba," from "Pagliacci," to which Mr. Gigli brought the fervor and pathos given to this song by that outstanding tenor of yesterday.

By request Gigli opened his portion of the program with the lovely "O Del Mio Dolce Ardor," by Gluck, in which the singer's gift of emotional interpretation, mastery of melody and intelligent musicianship was exhibited.

Another facet of Gigli's vocal genius was brought to the fore in his duet from "La Boheme," with Mme. Nina Verez-Dansereau, soprano, who was the assisting artist on his program. The blend of his voice with that of soprano produced an ensemble tone of rare beauty.

Mme. Verez-Dansereau gave good account of her share of the program and has a soprano voice of great possibilities. One of her outstanding selections was "Connais Tu le Pays," from "Mignon," which disclosed a rich, luscious tone of lovely quality smoothly sustained.

At the forty-second morning next Wednesday the artists presented will be Mlle. Erna Rubinstein, violinist, and Rudolph Ganz, pianist-conductor.

400 Toil to Save Two Men Caught in Fire-Swept Mine

Rescue Workers Insist Trapped Kentuckians Have Chance, Although Shaft Was Sealed 4 Days Ago; Curtains' Absence Revives Hope.

Dixon, Ky., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Farm work in this section was virtually suspended today, while some 400 residents, recruited from miles around, toiled in shifts in the dark maw of a small hillside coal mine which holds the fate of Aaron Bridewell, 31, and Dorris Woods, 40, trapped there Saturday by fire.

Although the mine had been sealed, with fire raging on the inside for nearly four days, volunteer rescue workers tonight insisted that there was a chance for the imprisoned men to be alive. This hope was strengthened when the rescue crews reached a point in the mine that had been screened with mine curtains and found those curtains gone.

There was said to be no evidence of their having been burned, and rescuers hoped that the men removed the curtains and screened themselves from the deadly fumes of the burning coal.

Grim-faced men and women, talking in whispers, stood around the mouth of the mine as the rescue crews worked feverishly to build props under the fallen roof. Bad air hampered them, but as one man staggered out for a breath of fresh air, a dozen hands reached for his pick or shovel.

Early tonight the workers had penetrated to a point approximately 80 feet from the mouth of the mine, which runs into a hillside like a cave.

The opening of the mine, which had been sealed under order of a United tates mine inspector to smother the fire, was melodramatic. Last night a party of men "borrowed" the Dixon fire engine, without permission, and set out over the hills, impassable except on foot, horse or muleback. Two miles from the mine, a tractor was attached to the fire engine and the procession labored on over the tortuous, muddy road.

At the mine, the men set to work with picks and shovels and found the fire practically out. Equipment was carried in on muleback and a fan was attached to the tractor motor to blow fresh air to the workers. Gas masks, too, were provided. There was to be no cessation in the work tonight.

At the outskirts of the crowd stood Brideweel's wife. Relatives of both men were among the workers.

The fire which trapped the men in the mine broke out Saturday, apparently from a gasoline engine. Mine rescue crews rushed here from Sturgis, Henderson and Evansville, Ind., but were unable to check the blaze. Finally, with the consent of relatives of the imprisoned men, inspectors ordered the mine sealed.

BULLS GAIN CONTROL OF PRICES IN STOCKS

Utilities, Amusement and Rail Shares Undergo Spirited Rallies.

COMMODITIES AGAIN SAG

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The most spirited clash between opposing speculative forces experienced in nearly two weeks today moderately disturbed the comparative idleness in which the stock market has languished since the holidays, and ended with the bull crowd gaining the upper hand.

On the whole, however, the bull victory was not particularly decisive, and operations were not violent enough to shake the market out of its narrow trading rut. Sales for the day totaled 2,630,060, the largest since January 2, but the price index of 90 leading stocks showed a net gain of less than a point.

The advance was aided by renewed talk of a decrease in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate tomorrow. Such action will undoubtedly depend upon whether the Bank of England reduces its rate tomorrow morning. A large shipment of gold from Spain to London enhances the prospect of such action, but sterling exchange has weakened so decisively of late that the prospect is not regarded as particularly promising.

Call Loans at 4 Per Cent.

Money at this center cheapened considerably. Call loans declined to 4 per cent, after renewals at 4½, and funds were offered in the outside market as low as 3½. Time money was also easier. The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia reduced its rate from 5 to 4½ per cent, placing it on a level with the New York rediscount rate, and in some quarters this was interpreted as clearing the way for a lower rate here. The Guaranty Trust Co. announced that it was importing $5,000,000 in gold from Brazil.

Business news and statistics coming to hand were not of a character to clarify the outlook to any extent. Freight car loadings for the New Year's Day week showed a marked increase over the Christmas week, and were somewhat better than for the like week two years ago, but failed by a substantial margin to reach the total of the like period of a year ago.

Copper statistics for December showed a large accumulation of stocks, but announcement of a further curtailment of production by Anaconda reflected determination to protect the price structure. Crude oil production last week again expanded and today a sharp cut in Texas crude prices was announced. The latter development, however, was regarded as a part of the larger refiners compaign to discourage excessive output. The weekly steel trade reviews reported a moderate gain in production, but a weakening of prices. Foreign trade figures for December showed a substantial contraction in exports.

Montgomery Ward Features.

Heavy selling of Montgomery Ward was the outstanding feature of the day's trading. The issue was depressed 5¼ points to a new low for the present stock, at 38⅜, but a general rally in the last hour carried it up to 40¾. Rather unsettling rumors were heard during the decline, but President Everitt issued a statement during the afternoon saying the company was in the strongest financial position it has ever enjoyed, and condemning "organized use of misleading rumors." The selling was generally regarded as a bear drive, although much of it appeared to come from Chicago.

The amusement shares, which have been depressed by the Fox Tangle, were bid up spiritedly, presumably in response to the fairly favorable earnings statement published by Loews for the year ended November 22.

Utilities and an assortment of rails were also notably strong. Shares closing about 2 to 4 points higher included American Tobacco B, Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake & Ohio, Consolidated Gas, Delaware & Hudson, Electric Power & Light, Stone & Webster, Loews, National Biscuit, North American, Paramount and Warner Bros. Fox Film A and Radio Keith closed up more than a point. U. S. Steel closed up 1¾. In the low-priced group, Transcontinental Oil rose to 10 in a large turnover.

American Locomotive Decline.

Soft spots included American Locomotive, American Woolen preferred, Gulf States Steel, Hudson, Mengel Co., Pierce Arrow A and Worthington Pump, closing off 2 to nearly 4 points. Colorado & Southern dropped 6 points in a small turnover, and Midland Steel preferred, 13.

Commodities generally sagged. Wheat futures lost 1½ cents and more, reflecting reduced estimates of the export movement. Corn declined as much under pressure of large offerings. Cotton was dull and closed slightly lower. Coffee futures, however, rallied on short covering.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

$90,000,000 IN BOND FINANCING IS OPENED

C. & O. $35,088,000 Offering Reported as Already Oversubscribed.

U.S. ISSUES LOSE GROUND

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Investment sources were asked today to take more than $90,000,000 in new bond offerings, including one railroad and two utility issues, with the result that a small scale-down occurred in quotations of listed securities. New flotations so far this week approximate $270,000,000, which is regarded as a large amount for the present market.

Averages for all groups shaded off in the largest turnover of the new year. Forenoon prices were firm to slightly higher, but toward the close easier tendencies appeared and small net losses proved to be numerous. The rails and utilities inclined to heaviness.

Dealers report no relaxation in the demand for bonds of the best grades, which receive most of the inquiry from private investors.

New Issues Readily Absorbed.

New issues of this type have found a ready absorption because of the more attractive yields and there consequently has been a slight tendency to neglect listed bonds meeting the most conservative tastes. In view of the extremely cautious nature of the present investment demand it is believed that many prospective purchasers, however, are waiting for a definite demonstration of the market's ability to advance after the new flotations have been taken.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway $35,088,000 offering of 65-year 4½ per cent mortgage bonds was reported oversubscribed soon after the books opened. This was the first large rail issue of an old-fashioned lien type since the deflation in stocks and its reception was watched with interest. Traded on a when issued basis, a few of the bonds sold at 94, the offering price.

Among the listed rails there were small losses in Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Rock Island 4½s and 4s, Central Pacific first 4s, Erie 5s and general lien 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s and general 4s, and Western Maryland 4s. St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s and Pennsylvania general 4½s each lost a point.

Illinois Steel Advances.

The industrial group was marked by a 2¾ point rise in Illinois Steel debenture 4½s to 100¼, exceeding the 1929 high. It was reported that the United States Steel Corporation, which guarantees this bond, was planning to complete its program of retiring the funded debt of the subsidiaries. The issue is callable at 105.

Other industrial changes included a decline of nearly 3 points in Fisk Rubber 6s and fractional improvement in Goodrich 6½s, Hudson Coal 5s, U. S. Rubber 5s and a few others. The group was generally stronger than the rails and utilities.

American Telephone 35-year 5s, when issued, turned over vigorously, meeting with further profit taking for a tiny net decline. International Telephone debenture 4½s rose ¾, but there was little activity in the power and light company issues.

Convertibles Are Brisk.

A few convertibles moved rather briskly, but without much effect on prices. New Haven 6s lost 2 points and Missouri Pacific 5½s declined ½. American Telephone 4½s rose ¾.

United States Governments eased. Most of the business was in the treasuries. An unusual feature was the complete absence of trading in the Liberty 3½s. In the stronger foreign group French 7½s surpassed their 1929 peak on good buying.

New bond offerings scheduled for tomorrow include a $12,500,000 issue of first mortgage fee and leasehold 6s of the 40 Wall street corporation, owner of the Bank of Manhattan Co. Building in New York. The bonds, maturing in 1958, are priced at 96½.

11 OF CITY'S FIRMS PICK 1930 OFFICERS

Prudential Bank Reports Gain in Deposits Since October Call.

MEEM GETS NEW POST

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

At the organization meeting Tuesday of directors of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., Harry G. Meem was elected senior vice president to fill the place vacated at the end of the year by the retirement of Andrew Parker. Mr. Meem has been with the company 40 years, having advanced through all important positions in its organization.

John B. Larner, president, and John Joy Edson, chairman of the board; Arthur Peter, vice president and general counsel, and Charles H. Doing, vice president in charge of the West End office, were reelected to their respective offices. Charles R. Grant, treasurer; William H. Baden, trust officer, and Alfred H. Lawson, real estate officer, were each made vice presidents in charge of their respective departments. James M. Mason, George M. Fisher and Ralph Endicott were reelected assistant treasurers and George O. Schweinhaut and Norman E. Towson were promoted to the same official designation. Herbert W. Primm was reelected assistant real estate officer and Leonard Marbury was reelected assistant trust officer. Harry W. Gauss, Bernard L. Amiss and Charles M. Irelan, jr., were also elected assistant trust officers.

This is the foryt-first annual election of officers of the company, which has been notable for the continuance in office of men who were among its original organizers and others who have been with the company since its earliest days. The president's annual report, presented to the board, revealed a prosperous year, marked by increase of deposits and earnings.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the East Washington Savings Bank held yesterday, S. Wilson Earnshaw was elected secretary-treasurer to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Charles A. McCarthy.

Ten other banks and corporations held organization or annual meetings yesterday and results of these follow:

Second National Bank.

Fred Jorss, treasurer; B. F. Rover, secretary and assistant treasurer. Other directors elected were Henry Troeger, Gertrude E. Berens, J. A. Eisenbeiss and John B. Geier.

General Auto Truck Officers.

All officers and directors of the General Auto Truck Co. were also reelected and are B. C. Downey, president; Charles H. Pardoe, vice president and general manager; William H. Staples, treasurer; E. Austin King, secretary; E. C. Foster and Joseph H. Galliher, directors.

Home Plate Glass Insurance Co.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Home Plate Glass Insurance Co. of the City of Washington held yesterday the following trustees were again chosen for the ensuing year: Byron S. Adams, H. H. Bergmann, Charles R. Brown, Albert J. Gore, Charles E. Hood, John B. Larner and William H. Somervell. The board organized with the selection of the following officers: John B. Larner, president; Byron S. Adams, vice president, and William H. Somervell, secretary-treasurer. The financial report of the treasurer showed a gratifying increase in the business of plate glass insurance premiums during the year. This company was incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia on February 11, 1882.

Citizens Mortgage Corporation.

At the regular semiannual meeting of the Citizens Mortgage Corporation, the following directors were reelected for the ensuing year: Joseph Schiavone, Dr. Salvatore Floria, Frank T. Fuller, John Vaccaro, John Rubino, Gustavo Grifoni and Louis Carl.

A semiannual dividend of 3½ per cent was declared, payable on January 20 on stock of record on January 15. The newly elected directors will meet for the election of officers next Monday.

President John R. Hawkins, of the Prudential Bank, in his report to stockholders at the regular annual meeting announced deposits of more than $400,000 and resources of more than $550,000. Referring to a record of the bank, President Hawkins stated that a most interesting feature in the recent bank call tabulation was the fact that every savings bank in Washington, with a single exception, reported a decline in deposits since the October call, the exception being the Prudential Bank on Florida avenue, which recently conducted a special campaign for new and larger accounts.

Of the $100,000 capital stock subscribed, $98,380 has been paid in. The bank recently opened a Christmas Savings Club for 1930, and already more than 3,000 subscribers have been listed, representing a club of over $150,000. The Christmas Club will close February 1. Directors of Attends L'Enfant Memorial Meeting.

Avon M. Nevius, vice president of the Riggs National Bank, will represent the Society of Colonial Wars in the District of Columbia at the inaugural meeting of the Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant Memorial Association and Associated Societies at Fraunces' Tavern, New York City, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, when a bronze of Maj. L'Enfant will be officially presented to the Sons of the Revolution by the president general of the Society of the Cincinnati.

Washingtonians are particularly interested in this honor to Maj. L'Enfant, because of his achievement in designing the original plans of the Capital City.

Fred MacKenzie, president of the Tolman Laundry and a member of the board of directors of the American Institute of Laundering, has left for Joliet, Ill., to attend the opening of its new $500,000 building Saturday.

President Maurice Otterback, of the Anacostia Bank, is spending his vacation in Havana, Cuba, and will also visit Florida.

Miss Mary J. Winfree, secretary of the Continental Trust Co., one of the best-known woman bank executives in the country, has returned to her work after several weeks' vacation and rest.

Curb Review

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Prices on the New York Curb Market continued to flounder around within a narrow trading area today although major speculative activity was again on the up-side. Trading was largely in the hands of professionals, although some outside participation was apparent in a few public utilities, theaters and specialties in which pools are operating.

Electric Bond and Share, one of the recognized leaders of the public utility group, continued to creep upward, closing at 85¼ for a net gain of 1¼ points. Cities Service improved fractionally. Niagara and Hudson has made only a slight response to the power agreement reached by opposing political factions at Albany. United Light and Power A advanced about a point but United Gas, which is being spoken of as the nucleus of a natural gas merger in the Southwest, lost about a point on profit-taking.

Oils were slightly reactionary on the announcement of a cut in Texas crude oil prices by the Humble Co. Venezuela Mexican broke 8½ points on a few sales.

Theater stocks gave a fairly good demonstration of group strength. General Theaters Equipment added a point to its recent gain. Columbia Pictures advanced 3 points and Consolidated Theaters moved up about a point.

Heavy trading in Trans-America "Rights," which advanced 2 points, featured the Investment Trust & Trading Corporation group, which did not appear to be affected by the introduction of a bill in the State Legislature to regulate those corporations, and place them under the supervision of the State banking authorities. Third and Fourth National Investors advanced a point each and Pennroad improved fractionally.

Utah Radio broke 16½ points to a new low at 4¼ on a small turnover. Stutz Motor Co. bonds dropped 9 points to a new low at 35, which contrasts to a high of 116⅝ last year.

Rising Phils Stamped as Contender

Hard-Hitting Club, Clever Infield Is 1930 Threat

Team May Not Win, But Is Contender, Baker Declares.

This is another of the series of stories on the prospects of major league baseball teams in the coming season.

By JOHN H. REITINGER.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The Phillies, who broke National League records last year by making the largest number of total bases, the most long hits, and topped all other teams in the league for home runs, are expected to cut a figure in the coming pennant race.

"I do not say we have a pennant winner," said President William F. Baker of the Phillies, "but I do believe we have a pennant contender."

The team, buttressed by heavy hitters and a nifty infield, needed only capable pitchers last season to force their way up among the teams fighting for the lead. The team will go South next month under the leadership of Burt Scotten with no fewer than fourteen pitchers, out of which he hopes to get a winning crew for the pennant campaign.

Alexander Bolsters Mound Staff.

Scouts dug up Earl Collard, a talented twirler from Shreveport, who won 10 and lost 2 games in 1929; Chet Nichols, of Montreal, with a record of 16 and 12, and Bryan Speece, submarine ball specialist from Indianapolis.

Also the best of last year's staff will be reinforced by that veteran of many campaigns, Grover Cleveland Alexander, who comes back to the Phils from the St. Louis Cardinals through a trade. Aleck may not win a majority of his games, but he is expected to serve as an experienced relief twirler in the pinches.

Other newcomers on the pitching staff are Harold Miller, who was a free agent last year, and John Milligan, of Erie, Pa. Then there are the regulars of last year, Louis Koupal, Ray Benge, Phil Collins, Harold Elliott, Lester Sweetland and Claude Willoughby. Sam Dailey and Harry Smythe, who joined the Phils late last year, will go South with the team.

Virgil Davis Chief Backstop.

The death of Walter Lerran, leading catcher in the National League last year, deprived the Phils of an excellent player, but three other backstops will be on hand to help Virgil Davis, a first-class receiver. These catchers are Harry McCurdy, formerly of the White Sox, procured from Toledo; Al Cooper, from Birmingham, and George Susce, who was with the Phillies last season.

The 1929 infield is intact and the same wrecking crew of fence busters as last year will be in the outfield.

PHOENIX PLAYS SATURDAY.

The Phoenix Club Quintet will play the Whitestone Courtmen of Alexandria Saturday night at 9 o'clock in the Eastern High School Gymnasium

Is Held Blameless in Engaging Eagles in Court Game.

THE status of the Knight Store Basket Ball Team of Alexandria was cleared last night by the registration committee of the District of Columbia Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, which granted the team recognition as amateurs upon application for registration in the A. A. U.

The Knight Team had fallen from grace as the result of engaging in a game with the Skinker Eagles, of American U. Quartet Upheld as Amateurs

The players, Leon Shloss, Leland Field, John La Favre and David Lichliter, plan to compete with the United Typewriter Grays in the District A. A. U. tournament sponsored by The Washington Post. The registration committee last night ruled that the offending players had not affected their amateur status in playing at Cumberland inasmuch as they were not cognizant that their opponents were a professional team and inasmuch as the guarantee received for the game was shown to be not above nominal expenses permitted by A. A. U. regulations. The players were warned by the committee against competing against professionals.

G. U. AND G. W. MAY MEET IN RING

ATHLETIC authorities of George Washington and Georgetown universities are considering arrangement of a boxing match, the first ever scheduled between the two institutions. The date tentatively selected is March 15, and it has been suggested that the match be held in some neutral hall, centrally located, in the city.

Candidates for the teams of both schools are now engaged in strenuous training, George Washington's representatives working out under Coach Bucky Green in the Colonial Gymnasium, and the Georgetown mittmen under Jim McNamara at the Jewish Community Center. Whether or not McNamara, who coached Georgetown last year and in 1928 will continue in the position has not been determined. Tom Mills newly appointed Hilltop athletic director and head football coach may take over the ring instruction himself it has been reported.

G. W. to Meet C. U. February 5.

George Washington and Catholic University already have been scheduled to meet in boxing. The match will be staged in the latter's gymnasium on the night of February 5. George Washington will commence competition on February 1 against Penn Military Academy at Chester Pa. Two other matches have been definitely arranged by the Colonial management both with Manhattan College of New York City. The first will be held on February 14 in the Gothamites' ring and the second will be fought at George Washington.

CHAMPION MATCHED.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Ed Hurley, local boxing promoter, announced today that he had matched Bat Battalino, world featherweight champion, and Ignacio Fernandez, champion Filipino, to box at the State Armory February 13.

EPISCOPAL'S FIVE ROUTS EASTERN

Alexandrians Cling to Lead to Win by 33-25 Count.

EASTERN HIGH'S courtmen met an unexpected obstacle in the form of Episcopal High School at Alexandria yesterday and when the smoke of the battle had cleared away, the Lincoln Parkers were on the short end of a 33-to-25 score.

Getting away to an early lead, the Episcopal Quintet was never headed, and at no time was threatened by the Guyon-coached crew. The closest Eastern ever came to deadlocking the game was at the end of the first half, when a short spurt carried it to within 4 points of Episcopal's total of 14.

Although Episcopal only last week suffered a defeat at the hands of Swavely, the Alexandria Team showed a complete reversal of form yesterday, with Cleveland, Hancock and Nalle leading the team to victory. Hancock scored but once from the field, but his all-round floor play was of high caliber.

A late rally by the Cuban enabled him to reach even terms with the champion.

Landis Issues Summons To Shires

Judge Intimates He Will Advise Player to Quit Ring.

Commissioner May Aid Art to Gain Chisox Peace.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Charles Arthur Shires is about ready to make his peace with baseball and lay aside his boxing gloves.

The "great man" was summoned today to appear before Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, next Monday, although commissioner Landis declined to say so He intimated the battling White Sox first baseman would receive a lot of fatherly advice and that he would be urged to quit his ring activities.

Shires is still on the suspended list, following his second insurrection against the White Sox in which he engaged in a fist fight with Russell ("Lena") Blackburne, then manager of the club, in a Philadelphia hotel room last fall. He has not been removed from the suspended list by the White Sox. Neither has he been tendered a contract for the 1930 season.

Landis Refuses to Discuss Meeting.

"I am going to have a session with Shires Monday, and, you see, I never like to discuss such personal business beforehand," Commissioner Landis said.

"Of course, I will be much interested in the way he has spent the winter, and some of his activities will demand attention. You see, I have about 400 children in the major leagues and from time to time I have conferences with each of them."

Offers to box still are pouring in on Shires after his success in drawing 18,000 customers to the Boston arena last week. He has an offer of $7,500 to box "Duster" Mails, former major league pitcher, in Los Angeles, and also is wanted for a four-round bout in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Shires Denies Summons; Says Business Is Good

Philadelphia, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Charles Arthur Shires stated tonight that he expected to confer with K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, in Chicago next Saturday concerning his prize fighting activities. He denied that he had been "summoned" to Chicago by the baseball commissioner, declaring that the conference had been "mutually" arranged.

Shires said he was anxious to get Commissioner Landis' views concerning his rnig activities and would accept his advice, even though it meant giving up prize fighting. The ball player-fighter declared, however, that he felt certain Mr. Landis would not ask him to abandon the ring until he had fulfilled contracts he has signed for bouts in Chicago and Philadelphia.

He said he had posted forfeits of $1,750 for these bouts, two in the Chicago Stadium and one in Philadelphia. For the Chicago fights, January 24 and January 31, he is to receive a total of $35,000, he said. The date for the bout here has not been fixed and his opponents in none of the fights are known to Shires. He said his contracts called for "suitable" opponents and he assumed they would be men "as green as I am" in the boxing game.

Shires came here last night to attend the annual dinner of the Philadelphia Sporting Writers and was a guest tonight of William F. Hunnefield, a Chicago White Sox player. He plans to leave for Chicago tomorrow.

Phil Scott America Bound With Alleged Secret Punch

LONDON, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Carrying away from England his "secret punch" and the admonitions of numerous cockney fight fans not to keep it too secret, Phil Scott set out from London town today to fight Jack Sharkey at Miami.

Grinning cheerfully, Scott surveyed the rows of mascots presented to him by crowds of admirers at Waterloo station. Incidentally Waterloo didn't carry any forebodings to Scott as he said the Miami Waterlool wouldn't be his.

One sparring partner, one manager and the "secret punch" composed the Scott expedition sailing on the Homeric from Southampton hoping to be back in England in springtime with a claim on the first world's heavyweight crown to call these shores home since the days of the knuckle fighters.

Scott Fails to Demonstrate.

Scott didn't demonstrate his secret punch before entraining, but insisted that he had it with him. "I know the punch that's going to beat Sharkey; I've got it," he said, as he kissed his young wife good-by and started for the train. "I'll go for Sharkey from the start and see if I can't knock him out; he's the sort of man I like to fight. He rushes in. That sort are grand for a man who can use his left."

HYATTSVILLE BEATEN BY CENTRAL

D. C. Five Steps Out in Final Half to Sew Up Game, 41-26.

THE Hyattsville High School Courtmen, who previously have been easy victims for Washington scholastic quintets, threw quite a scare into the camp of the Central Tossers yesterday when they put up a stubborn battle before bowing, 41 to 26, in the Mount Pleasant gymnasium.

Although Central's first-string aggregation took the floor at the start of the afternoon's work, it was unable to get any considerable advantage over the visiting team, leading only 10-8 at the end of the first quarter. Although Hyattsville scored but one field goal during the second ten minutes of play, Central found the going just as rough and had to be content with an 18-10 lead at half time.

Central Steps Out in Final Quarter.

It was not until the final stanza that the Blue and White Five could draw away from its opponent to make the breathing somewhat easier for its followers.

Then, holding Hyattsville to 4 points while they were running up 10, the Centralites put the game safely away. Francis Lewis played a bang-up game for Hyattsville, while Stanley Parkins, Blue and White guard, led the winners with 13 points.

Coach Coggins inserted his entire second team for a short time during the fray.

McLarnin and Mandell Meet for Third Time

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The third match between Jimmy McLarnin and Sammy Mandell, scheduled for the Chicago Stadium February 4, probably will not be held until February 28, owing to a conflict of dates on the pugilistic calendar, it was revealed today.

Because of other engagements, the stadium reserved only one February boxing date with the Illinois State Athletic Commission, but later found that either February 17 or 19 would be available. The commission, however, refused approval of the dates because Jack Dempsey has a boxing show scheduled at the Coliseum February 21.

Both Mandell and McLarnin are expected to agree to the February 28 date as neither has any major encounters booked for the late February period.

Yankees Mail Contracts To Their 31 Players

New York, Jan. 15 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees today m ed contracts to Babe Ruth and 30 other players. The document sent to the home run hitter is for a term of two years and calls for a salary of $75,000 a year. Recently the Babe declined those terms and left for Florida, a holdout for $85,000.

Four players in good standing will not receive contracts as a result of today's mailing. Lou Gehrig, first baseman; Henry Johnson and George Pipgras, pitchers, will serve under holdover contracts in 1930 and Ben Chapman, third baseman, signed when he was in New York for a Christmas holiday appendicitis operation.

PENN NOSES OUT NAVY, 32 TO 30

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 15.—The prestige of the Intercollegiate Basket Ball League's standing in the hands of the league-leading University of Pennsylvania Quint was given a severe scare here today by the Annapolis Midshipmen; but in the end the Quakers eked out a 32-to-30 verdict, the margin being that gained in the first half, at the end of which the tally stood 16 to 14, favoring the Quakers.

Penn smeared the Navy's "under the basket attack," and while the Tars gave one of the greatest exhibitions of foul shooting ever seen on any court in an effort to overcome the invaders, the deadeye firing of Ullrich, a Penn sophomore, was more than most any team could have equaled. This newcomer to the Penn Team, who swept aside the team's captain, Lobley, sank eight field goals against three Navy guards, who strove in vain to keep him covered. Most of his shots were from outside, or long range.

Navy Sinks 16 of 18 Shots From Freedom Line.

Navy turned in the remarkable performance of making good in 16 of 18 foul flips. Holtzworth missed the only two charity throws the Tars failed to check in.

After six minutes of the second half Navy still trailed by 2 points, the count being 19 to 21. A moment later Colestock tipped the ball to Reinhardt, cut sharply, and received the ball to dribble in for the points which tied the score. Penn took the lead and held it after that.

Mesmer Hero In Hilltop's Triumph

Chestertown Team Stubborn Foe; Lead Changes 6 Times.

By JACK ESPEY.

WHEN "Frigid Freddy" Mesmer gets set and takes a shot, you can almost bet the family jewels that two points will go up on Georgetown's scoreboard.

This sharpshooting, cool little veteran took two such shots last night in the last four minutes of a torrid basketball game between Georgetown and Washington College in Ryan Gymnasium. Both times the ball swished through the netting to pull the Hilltop five from the brink of defeat to a 37 to 32 triumph.

The unexcitable Mesmer came through just when it looked as if the cocky crew from Chestertown, Md., would win. His first shot sent the Blue and Gray ahead by one point, while the second, following a goal by Capt. Maurice McCarthy, placed the result beyond doubt. In each instance Mesmer dribbled down the sideline to a point about twenty feet from the loop, eluded his opponent with a feint, took careful aim and then let go. Perfect goals resulted, the ball not even touching the rim.

Georgetown Plays Best Game.

Washington College, justifying advance notices, presented potent basketball all the way without making a substitution. In Stanley Giraitis, forward, and Howard Dopson, guard, the Eastern Shore Five exhibited performers of exceptional merits. Between them they counted for 22 points.

While Mesmer proved the hero, Capt. McCarthy was an indispensable figure in Georgetown's attack and defense. He captured individual scoring honors with 14 points and outplayed Giraitis, to whom he was assigned.

It was Georgetown's best game on a local court this season. Nothing less could have downed the visitors, who, though cocky almost to the point of overconfidence, knew all the tricks of their trade.

The lead changed hands six times before Mesmer unloosed his first goal. Washington got away in front when Alexander heaved a fielder from midfloor in the opening minute, but only seconds later McCarthy tied the count on a flip from under aided by Mesmer's pass.

Giraitis regained the lead for Washington at 7-6 with a short looper midway in the first period. Don Dutton then sent the Hilltop in front with a beautiful one-hand shot. He duplicated it shortly after, and Georgetown finished the half on the better end of a 16-12 score.

Washington Goes Into Lead.

Both sides fired away furiously in the early part of the second session, but Washington gradually cut down its disadvantage. A goal by Dopson shoved the Shoremen ahead, 2-20, after ten minutes had expired. McCarthy, with a short shot, regained the lead for G. U., and the situation remained thus for five more minutes. Then Giraitis, Stevens and Dopson accumulated a cluster of seven points to make the figures read—Washington, 32; Georgetown, 31. Then it was that Mesmer and McCarthy contributed the decisive shots.

Society Expected Out in Full Force for Six Races.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Miami's fifth season of thoroughbred racing will informally open the social season here tomorrow as the Miami Jockey Club, recently purchased by a number of Northern sportsmen and capitalists, throws open its Hialeah track for a 45-day racing meet. The Miami Inaugural Handicap, for 3-year-olds and up, with an added money value of $2,000 will feature the six opening day races. The event is for 6 furlongs.

Metropolitan Miami's winter society and sports colony is expected to be at the track in full force. In addition, horsemen and turf lovers numbering several thousand will attend or participate in the events.

More than 800 horses are on hand for the meet. Stables of the Hialeah plant have been crowded for several weeks.

16 Entries Posted For Feature.

Sixteen entries were posted today for the feature race. The event will be fourth of the day. Of these, Greenock, with a top impost of 120 pounds, was seen by the horsemen as a likely contender, while Clean Play, local favorite of last season, also received consideration. Crystal Domino and other worthy representatives were entered, the latter group including Herade, Jar, Beacry, Partisan, Condy, Chatover, Sun Meddler, Herrick, Gun Royal, Pegg's Ride, Single Star, Nearby and Tutti Fruiti.

KNIGHT STORE FIVE APPROVED BY A. A. U.

Washington, recognized as a professional team.

William E. Russell, chairman of the registration committee, issued the following statement in connection with the ruling: "The committee found that inasmuch as the offense was one which was not premeditated and due to a misunderstanding, the Knight Team is restored to its amateur standing, with a warning to use greater care in the future."

The action of the registration committee in the case permits amateur teams to compete against the Knight Five without fear of disqualification from the approaching A. A. U tournament under the auspices of The Washington Post, to be staged on March 10. The Alexandrians had stated that they engaged the Eagles before being apprised that the latter were regarded as pros.

Registrations for the tournament are flowing in rapidly to The Washington Post sports department and to Chairman Russell at 1503 North Capitol street, with every indication that the record entry list of 89 teams which competed last year will be overwhelmingly exceeded. The 145-pound and unlimited teams have been given until February 1 to register players with the A. A. U. and to submit at least one box score with names of the ten eligibles included to The Washington Post for publication.

N. C. U. PLAYS W. & L. FIVE TONIGHT

First Conference Go for Tarheels; Revised Schedule.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Jan. 15.—The University of North Carolina quintet will get its first Southern Conference test of the season in the Tin Can here Thursday night. Washington and Lee will furnish the opposition, the battle between the old rivals to get under way at 8 o'clock, following a game between the Oak Ridgers and Tar Babies to start at 7 o'clock.

The Tarheels have played five games with Y. M. C. A. quints and two with North Carolina colleges, but this will be their first test under Southern Conference fire.

A weakness in forward material has characterized early season appearances. For once the Tarheels, rulers of the Southern basket ball roost four seasons and of the State roost seven seasons out of the last eight years, will take the field below the rank of outstanding contenders.

Coach Jim Ashmore may lead a hidden ace in a new forward combination, picked from the ranks of Neiman, Cleland, Edwards, Dameron or Hutchinson.

Greene's Eligibility Still Questioned.

Johnny Greene, outstanding freshman forward last year, is back in college after being away the fall quarter, but his eligibility is still being debated and it is doubtful whether Mr Greene will be the ace, at least on Thursday night.

Several important changes in the court schedule were announced here today by Charles T. Woollen, graduate manager of athletics.

The places for the home-and-home games with Wake Forest have been shifted. Washington and Lee has taken the place of the V. M. I. date on February 6, and this second battle with the Generals will be played at Lexington, Va., and the game which was pending for the Tin Can here with Loyola of Chicago for February 12 has been canceled.

The revised schedule follows:

January 18, Washington and Lee, here; 25, Wake Forest, at Raleigh; 28, N. C. State, there.

February 1, Duke, here; 5, V. P. I., there; 8, Washington and Lee, there; 11, Virginia, there; 8, Maryland, there; 11, N. C. State, here; 15, Duke, there; 18, Wake Forest, here; 19, Maryland, here; 21, V. P. I., here; 22, Navy, there; 24, Davidson, here; 28, Southern Conference tournament.

Virginia Poly Passers Beat Roanoke, 43-19

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Jan. 15.—V. P. I. Varsity, playing its first home game of the season, defeated the Roanoke College Maroons, 43-19, in the War Memorial Hall tonight. Baker, with 12 points, led the scorers.

VIRGINIA MAT PROSPECTS DIMMED

4 Bright Prospects Lost Because of Illness.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 15.—Prospects for a successful wrestling team at the University of Virginia for the 1930 season have been greatly weakened by the loss of men due to illness. At the end of the 1929 season the outlook for 1930 appeared to be excellent, in view of the fact that only one man, Capt. Harry Graves, was lost by graduation.

Last year Capt. Graves was an outstanding man in the 135-pound class. It was thought that his place could be filled by Sam Baker, of Montgomery, Ala., who last year made the role of general utility man, wrestling in both the 145-pound class and in the 158-pound class, although only weighing 140 pounds. Of the 1929 team, three men were picked for places on the Southern Conference second team. They were Pryor, 115 pounds; Graves, 135 pounds, and French, 165 pounds.

At the beginning of workouts for the 1930 team it was found that E. M. Pryor, jr., of this city, had just undergone an operation for appendicitis and would be unable to wrestle. G. A. Fraser, of Houston, Tex., an outstanding member of the 1929 team in the 125-pound class, became ill and was forced to withdraw from school.

Hilgenberg and Black Lost For 1930 Season.

C. E. Hilgenberg, of Baltimore, 125-pounder of the 1929 freshman team, who was undefeated last year, suffered an attack of blood poison and his physician will not permit him to wrestle. Black, 145-pounder, who was prevented from wrestling during 1929 due to an injury received early in the season, will be unable to compete during this year because of scholastic duties. Davenport, of last year's 165-pound class, is recovering from an attack of tonsilitis, having just undergone an operation which resulted in complications.

As a nucleus for the 1930 squad, Coach L. W. Graves, jr., has only three veterans from last year's team. They are S. R. Baker, 135 pounds; Capt. Dexter French, of New York City, who wrestled in the 165-pound class last year but probably will be used as a light-heavyweight during this season, and Albert Lewy, of Cleveland, Ohio, regular full back on the varsity football team, who last year competed as a light-heavyweight, but due to the scarcity of heavyweight material probably will be used in These meetings will be held for six weeks, on Wednesday evening.

Albert Shiflet, 24 years old, was fined $290.50, including costs, and given three months in jail yesterday when he appeared in Police Court, charged with possession of liquor as the result of a raid on a garage in Mount Vernon avenue by Police Capt. W. W. Campbell and Policeman McClark. The officers said they found 44 half-gallons of corn liquor.

Kenneth Poole, 20 years old, who was also arrested for the same offense, pleaded not guilty, claiming he had just arrived at the garage shortly ahead of the officers, but was fined $190.50, including costs, by Acting Police Justice Harry Kennedy. He gave notice of an appeal.

Miss Frances E. Elliott, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Walter B. Murley, of Long Cabin, Wyo., who are now playing at the Palace Theater in Washington, came to Alexandria yesterday shortly before noon and were married, the ceremony being performed by George S. Boy, 12, Loses Life When Home Burns

Special to The Washington Post.

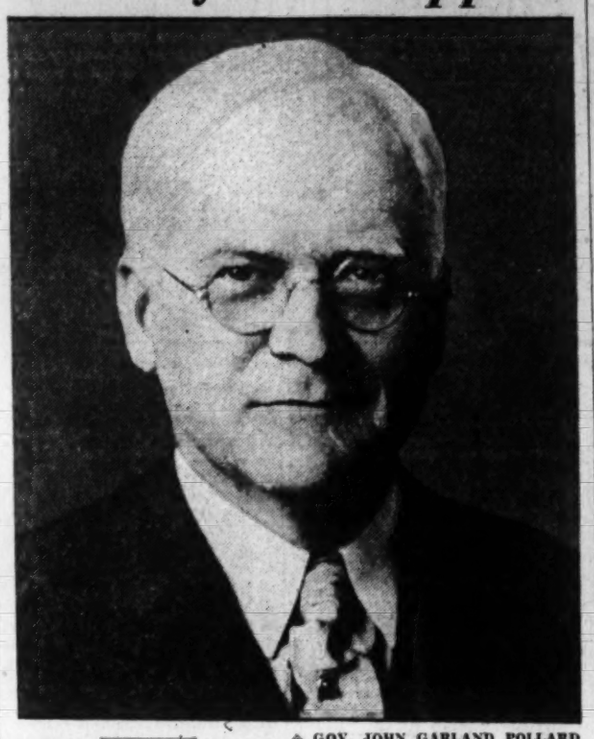
Lynchburg, Va., Jan. 15.—Thought to have been overcome by smoke while he slept in his bed, Maynard, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Puckett, died last night in a fire which destroyed the family home on Gravel Ridge, Campbell County, 19 miles south of Lynchburg. His brother, Harold, 16, a senior at Rustburg High School, was severely burned, and was brought to Memorial Hospital, where it is feared he will not recover.

The house, containing eight rooms, was valued at $4,000. The fire started in the rear from an unknown origin.

Miss Blanche Puckett, an aunt of the boys, was reading downstairs when she heard Harold fall to the floor. She went upstairs and found him in the flames, which were sweeping through a door which he, apparently, had just opened. She dragged him out of the house and when other members of the family got out the spread of the flames made it impossible for them to rescue the other boy, whose charred body was found this morning.

The boy is survived by his parents and six brothers and sisters.

Pollard Emphasizes Need of Law Support



GOV. JOHN GARLAND POLLARD, the new chief executive of Virginia, who yesterday in his inaugural address urged law support by the public and advocated reforms in county government.

Inaugural Address Kept to Brief Discussion of State Policies.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Confining his inaugural address to a comparatively brief discussion of State policies, Gov. James Garland Pollard, chief executive of Virginia for the next four years, today laid special emphasis on the need of public support of laws, reforms in county government and elections and recommended additional State aid for public education, health and unfortunates.

Special messages are to come later on agriculture and the seafood industry, Gov. Pollard said, touching generally on these two important questions, and indicated his support of measures for their protection and promotion.

He paid a high tribute to Gov. Byrd, whose record, he said, "has attracted the attention of the entire Nation. To be elected to succeed him is a great compliment, yet I can not be over proud, for I know that you elected me only because under the constitution you could not reelect him."

Makes Specific Proposals.

A commission to study the needs of the State electoral system and report in 1932.

A commission to recommend reforms in county government and report in 1932, then to be continued for the purpose of studying comparative government in the counties.

Lower income tax.

Increased awards under the workmen's compensation act and legislation for better protection of lives, as pledged by the Democratic party.

State Electoral Needs.

Needs of the State electoral system, which received a thorough airing during Gov. Pollard's campaign, were outlined as consisting principally of a primary law applicable to both Democrats and Republicans; correction of the practice of wholesale payment of poll taxes; publicity, both before and after elections, as to contributions and the amounts and how spent; and a general revision of election statutes loosely drawn.

Another defect in the electoral statute, said Gov. Pollard, is complication in the process of voting, causing many ballots to be refused because improperly marked. Laws should be so drawn, he declared, "that the election will at all times accurately reflect the will of the majority, no matter how small that majority may be."

The different nominating practices of the Democrat and Republican parties in Virginia, the Republicans selecting their nominees by convention and the Democrats by primary election, have resulted in a procedure unfair to the Democrats by allowing Republicans improperly to participate in primaries of a party to which they do not belong, said Gov. Pollard.

Advocates Compulsory Primaries.

"So far as State-wide elections are concerned the primary should be made compulsory on both major parties and these elections should be held on the same day so as to lessen the temptation to the voter to participate in the primary of a party to which he does not belong," he asserted.

County government was referred to by Gov. Pollard as the foundation system of all American government, and he urged that it be given special study rather than to wait for the time when "the people back from the centers of population shall feel that they no longer have any responsibility or any authority in the conduct of those public affairs which most intimately affect them."

County government is costing Virginia, he said, approximately the same as State government, and the aggregate debts of the counties exceed those of the State. County expenses, he added, may afford a better field of retrenchment than State expenses.

Urges Survey of Counties.

Gov. Pollard recommended the creation of a fact-finding commission to secure information as to the progress, effectiveness and cost of the various governmental activities in which the counties are engaged, reporting in 1932 to the General Assembly. The commission would be asked to draft and recommend a general law setting forth optional forms of government to become effective in any county when submitted to the voters, and would be continued for the study of comparative county government in the State, analyzation and interpretation of statistics and comparative county costs.

During his campaign Gov. Pollard recalled he frequently declared his sympathy with the position that education should be the main business of the State. To this end he urged the General Assembly to adopt the recommendation of Gov. Byrd for enlargement of the education appropriation by $900,000 annually.

Education, said Gov. Pollard, is the function of the whole State, to be exercised for the benefit of all children within its borders, and the State can not absolve itself from this duty because the poorer communities can not perform their task.

"Not only is this sound public policy, but its justness becomes the more apparent when we remember that fully one-half of the children educated in the poor county sections spend their adult lives in the centers of wealth which become the chief beneficiaries of rural education," he said.

Business Men on Educational Board.

Gov. Pollard will appoint on the State board of education five business men and two educators, he stated, believing that the duties of the board require a mixture of business and professional knowledge in which the former is predominant. It is his idea that they will supplement each others' counsel and together administer the school system on businesslike principles, maintain high educational standards and shape proper courses for students.

Unfortunate children, he said, are the sacred wards of the State, and because they are poor children should not be separated from their mothers and placed in public institutions. Appreciating this fact, Gov. Pollard recommended that the General Asembly order a survey by the department of public welfare to determine the probable needs of a mothers' aid fund, what sums and machinery would be needed and how to apportion the amount between local and State treasuries.

While making no specific recommendations in regard to public health, Gov. Pollard said he realized that the public wealth is in a measure dependent on the public health, and urged sympathetic consideration of all measures designed for its protection.

Income Tax Cut Urged.

The state of the treasury justifies tax reductions, said Gov. Pollard, but these can not be as great as had been hoped, due to losses in taxable incomes suffered in the recent stock market crash. He recommended, however, a decrease in income taxes, to which end several bills have already been introduced in the Assembly.

The pledge of the Democratic party at its State convention in 1928 favoring an increase in awards under the workmen's compensation act and protective legislation for such citizens should be redeemed without delay, said Gov. Pollard.

The laws of Virginia must be upheld if the State is to stand, he declared in a plea for law observance, which he said could be accomplished only through voluntary action and not through enforcement. Lawlessness in high places he termed the greatest menace to institutions today.

Assumes No Superior Virtue.

"I am assuming no superior virtue when I appeal to the officers of Virginia to join me in setting an example of obedience to law, for all of us have been more or less guilty of violating one or more of our many statutes," he said.

"It is well to remember that to overlook one crime is to invite the commission of another. Lawlessness is the most contagious and deadly of all the diseases which afflict the body politic.

"A citizen deserves no credit for obeying laws which he believes and which he has no temptation to violate. We have no right to disobey a law because we think that law unreasonable. For if you and I have such a right, so has every other citizen, and each man would then be his own judge of what laws are binding on him. This means anarchy—every man a law unto himself."

Sunday Laws and Traffic Laws.

Liquor laws were mentioned as among those which have been commonly violated in recent years, and Gov. Pollard said he was convinced of the hopelessness of expecting officers to enforce effectively those statutes generally violated.

"We have reached a point when we must go back and do some underpinning of our legal structure by seeking to build a stronger foundation of public sentiment without which the superstructure will fail," he said. "Law enforcement and public sentiment must go hand in hand. They are Siamese twins; the one can not move without the other."

He appealed to the General Assembly to resist all appeals to curtail special funds set aside for the building of roads. When the proper time comes, he said, he will welcome an opportunity to reduce road taxes, but declared the funds now being used do not constitute a real burden but are an investment which yields dividends.

Public Interest Desired.

There must be a continued awakening of public interest in Virginia's progress if the State continues to go forward, said Gov. Pollard, declaring his intention to enlarge this movement. He expressed his conviction of the usefulness toward this end of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and chambers of commerce throughout the State, mentioning also the League of Virginia Municipalities Cooperative Educational Association, Parent-Teacher Association, League of Women Voters, organizations formed to promote agricultural interests and other similar bodies.

Gov. Pollard expressed the State's pride in the exploits of Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, and recommended that the General Assembly send a message of cheer and congratulations.

The project of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to restore the historical buildings of Williamsburg, ancient capital of Virginia, was declared by Gov. Pollard to be a gift to the State whose worth can not be valued in money. He expressed acknowledgment of the service rendered by Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin in attracting Mr. Rockefeller's attention to this work.

State Park Idea Favored.

The recommendation of Gov. Byrd that the State purchase Jamestown Island to be maintained as a State park was joined in by Gov. Pollard, who recommended further that steps be taken by the General Assembly to induce the Federal Government to purchase Yorktown Battlefield as a national park. He urged the continuance of efforts to make secure the establishment of a national park in the Shenandoah region, and support by the Assembly of plans for improving the section of northern Virginia, near Washington.

"When I stop to think," he concluded, "that I have just taken the oath of office once filled by Henry, Jefferson, Monroe and Tyler, and the long line of worthies who followed them, I am overwhelmed with the sense of responsibility and burning desire to do my best. At the same time I am duly conscious of my limitation and the utter futility of my endeavors, unless sustained by a higher power and the sympathetic cooperation of the whole people, and I here and now send up to Heaven my earnest prayer that my mind may be clear to see the right and that my will may be strong to do it. And to you, my fellow citizens, I appeal for your continued endeavors to make Virginia's future worthy of her glorious past."

Price of Tobacco At New High Level

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Jan. 15.—Dark tobacco yesterday set a new high record for the last ten years on the Petersburg market and the highest record for the State so far this season, when its price reached an average of $26.10 a 100 pounds. About 17,000 pounds were handled on yesterday's market. All grades were active and there was considerable demand, which is taken as an indication that this season's dark leaf market will prove one of the best since 1919.

So far, dark offerings have been light, but they will pick up from now on, warehousemen say. Both local tobacconists and growers in this section are paying more attention to the raising of dark tobacco. The overstock of this type that has existed for some time is being absorbed, it is explained, and the demand for it is expected to increase greatly during the coming stason.

Bright tobacco yesterday also was very active and the price of $22.94 a 100 pounds was considered a very good average. Of this type of tobacco, 100,000 pounds were handled yesterday, with prospects for good averages and big demand during the remainder of the season. Today's rain cut down the volume of both grades, but the price average remained high.

Leesburg Woman Dies After Short Illness

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Jan. 15.—Miss Mary Mildred McIntosh, 48 years of age, and sister of Bruce McIntosh, president of the Peoples National Bank at Leesburg, died this morning at her home here, after a short illness of pneumonia. She was a native of Loudoun County and the daughter of the late James L. and Mary E. McIntosh. Less than two months ago her sister, Miss Kate McIntosh, died at her home here.

Besides her brother, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Josephus Carr and Miss Nannie McIntosh, both of Leesburg. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late residence, with interment in the Union Cemetery here.

Disappointed Robbers Smash 19 Dozen Eggs

War was declared early yesterday in the Sanitary Grocery Store in District Heights—on egg war. Now Policeman Frank P. Prince, of Prince Georges County, has another scrambled affair to solve.

Two men broke into the store and, finding no money, proceeded to pelt each other with eggs. Nineteen dozen were used as ammunition. M. E. Baldwin, the manager, opened the store this morning and exclaimed:

"The egg market has gone to the wall."

Policeman Prince is inclined to blame the depredation on the "big egg lobby" in an attempt to boost egg prices. But other rural policemen see the nefarious hand of a beef trust, since two hams are also missing.

Be it what it may, say others, it looks more like a case of ham and eggs.

FARMERS INDORSE UNION MARKET SITE

SHUN CONGRESS' PLANS

Approximately 300 farmers, most of whom are members of the Maryland and Virginia Farmers Marketing Association, almost unanimously voted for the establishment of their outdoor market on the old Patterson tract, now being developed as the Union Market Terminal in the Northeast section at a meeting in the National Museum last night. This action was taken in the face of an authorization by Congress for the purchase of a site in the Southwest section for the market.

The farmers enthusiastically accepted the offer of a group of commission men, who are building at the Union Market Terminal, to use the market site temporarily, or as soon as they are forced to abandon their present holdings on B street and in the vicinity of Center Market, but they decided at the same time to ask Congress to buy the tract for them to replace the marketing ground which is being done away with for the construction of the Triangle development.

Committees will be named by Henry Friday, of Riverdale, Md., president of the farmers organization, to confer with representatives of the commission men on the use of the new market site and to carry the request of the association to Congress.

If Congress refuses to buy the tract for the farmers, they may make the purchase themselves, it was indicated by several speakers who made the proposal as an alternative plan. At any rate, they said, with two exceptions, that they wanted nothing to do with the Southwest tract on the river front just below the Mall.

The Union Market Terminal covers 42 acres and will be bounded by an extension of New York avenue and Florida avenue. Forty buildings are already under construction on the tract. Its backers claim that it is much more centrally located than the Southwest site, and the farmers agree and add that it is more convenient for them.

Among the commission men who were present at the meeting and advanced the offer are W. H. Harrison, W. Charles Heitmiller, M. J. Ward and Henry Klien.

About the only objection to the acceptance of the offer was voiced by a farmer who claimed to represent the sentiment of Virginia farmers. A rising vote revealed that only two of those present were in favor of the Southwest site in opposition to the Patterson tract.

Three Seriously Injured In Crash Near Leesburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Jan. 15.—Due to the heavy fog three persons were injured seriously and one received minor injuries late last night when two cars collided near Greenway, about a mile from Leesburg. The seriously injured are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ferguson, ages 43 and 40 years, respectively, of Aldie, and Robert Dekay, 20, son of H. E. Dekay, of Ashburn. Esther Poulson, of Leesburg, Mr. Dekay's companion, received minor injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and Mr. Dekay were taken to the Loudoun Hospital last night. Mr. Ferguson's face was so badly mashed that it was necessary to take him to Washington today for further treatment.

FAIRFAX CHAMBER URGES ROAD WORK

Widening of Chain Bridge Highway Favored by County Body.

PLAN POLLARD GREETING

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The January meeting of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce was held in the town hall at Vienna, the chamber going on record as favoring the widening of the Chain Bridge road, which is one of the main highways leading to Washington. President Edmund H. Allen reported that the efforts of the chamber's highway committee had been rewarded and arrangements were made to widen the present junction of the Lorton and Richmond road. The property owners have donated the necessary land and Superintendent M. M. Barnard, of the District workhouse, has arranged to have the labor performed by the prisoners of that institution at Lorton.

John W. Brookfield and E. J. Nevitt were appointed to take up the question of the dangerous intersection of Telegraph road and the Accotink Station road with County Engineer F. N. Larkin. Efforts will be made to have the road widened either by purchase or the gift of the additional right of way needed. The highway committee was instructed to confer with Engineer R. I. Mount, of the State Highway Department, in regard to the need of directional signs at Langley and Tysons Cross Roads. President Allen stated that he had received a letter from H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission, complimenting the local chamber on the valuable services of George F. Harrison, chairman of the chamber's highway committee, in his efforts to secure improved roads in this county and surrounding territory.

C. H. Powell was appointed to make the necessary repairs to the chamber's "Welcome" signs that are located at all the county highway entrances.

The chamber's board of directors were appointed a committee to welcome Gov. John G. Pollard, former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, and the Virginia Assembly and governor's staff when they visit northern Virginia tomorrow. A subcommittee consisting of Edmund H. Allen, Merton E. Church, Capt. Thurlow White, Thomas R. Keith and Robert R. Buckley were selected to confer with the similar committees of the Arlington and Alexandria chambers to plan the details of the trip. Special invitations will be extended to Representative R. Walton Moore, Fairfax, and Senators Claude Swanson and Carter Glass.

John Rooney, a member of the chamber's committee on waterpower development, addressed the meeting in regard to the proposed development of Great Falls on the Potomac and outlined the bill prepared by Thomas R. Keith for the appointment of a Potomac water power committee. The bill was introduced Monday in the State Legislature. It is hoped that the plans originally made by Maj. Gen. Jadwin for the development of the hydroelectric power at the falls, consistent with the keeping of the scenic beauty of the gorge, will be completed through the efforts of such committee in cooperation with similar committees of West Virginia, Maryland and the Federal Government. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Keith for his work in preparing the bill. Mr. Mooney stated that he regarded this movement the most important development for northern Virginia and adjoining States that has taken place in the last 100 years.

A complimentary life membership in the chamber of commerce was given to radio station WJSV at Mount Vernon Hills in recognition for its courtesy in giving the chamber a broadcast program New Year's Day.

A complaint was made to the chamber by Arthur Barringer, of Vienna, in regard to the regulations of glaring headlights on the highways. This was referred to the highway commission for investigation and report.

A special meeting of the board of directors was called by President Allen for January 30, in Fairfax; the meeting will follow the turkey dinner that will be served by the ladies auxiliary of the Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department.

A large number of applications for membership were read and accepted. The next meeting will be held at Colvin Run, February 10.

William Francis Ford, a lifelong resident of Clifton Station, died Tuesday at the home of his niece, Mrs. J. S. Collins, in Washington. For many years he was a salesman for the Buckley Brothers mercantile store at Clifton. He was 72 years old at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, one son and three daughters.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Clifton Baptist Church, with the Rev. S. Y. Craig and the Rev. V. H. Councill officiating. Interment will be in the Herndon Cemetery.

The Fairfax County Education Association will meet this evening in the auditorium of the Madison School in Falls Church at 8 o'clock. The reports of the teachers' meeting at Richmond will be made. Miss Dorothy Otley, president of the association, urges all teachers of the county to be present, as the executive committee will present a salary scale based on a teacher's merit, experience and certificate. The organization of a literary league will also be discussed.

There have been several meetings of the stockholders of several of the banks in the county.

The stockholders of the National Bank at Fairfax elected M. E. Church, Dr. F. M. Brooks, M. D. Hall, Thomas R. Keith, Wilson M. Farr, Dallas Berry, R. R. Farr, F. D. Richardson, Dr. F. W. Huddleson, Dr. Ford Swetman, and John C. Mackall members of the board of directors for the coming year. The directors elected Dr. F. M. Brooks president; Thomas R. Keith, first vice president; F. D. Richardson, second vice president, and Edgar Littleton, cashier. The action of the directors in purchasing the old tavern lot for the site of a new bank building was approved, and a subcommittee was appointed to submit plans.

The stockholders of the Fairfax County Federal Land Bank met yesterday in the office of John W. Rust and elected Dr. F. W. Huddleson, Franklin Williams, C. O. Schaub, E. E. Neff, J. W. Pobst, J. Kearns, Warner M. McNair, H. B. Derr and W. B. Doak as its directors. Dr. F. W. Huddleson was elected president; C. O. Schaub, vice president, and John W. Rust, secretary and treasurer. The appraisal committee consists of J. W. Pobst, C. O. Schaub and John Kerns, with W. M. McNair and H. B. Derr as alternates. A legislative committee was appointed to meet with the congressional finance committees in regard to questions of vital importance to the members of the bank.

The stockholders of the Fairfax County Farmers Service Co. elected Dr. J. L. Miller as president, C. O. Schaub, vice president, and J. W. Pobst, secretary and treasurer for the coming year. The directors elected were, C. P. Jones, Howland Kenyon, S. M. Thompson and Charles Roller. The annual report of the company shows a 50 per cent increase in the volume of business during last year. This company is composed of the farmers of the county and conducts a feed, seed and fertilizer company.

The Fairfax County Dairy Herd Improvement Association elected John B. Dowden, president; A. M. Schuerman, vice president; T. B. Mason, secretary and treasurer, and Dr. C. F. Muddiman at their annual meeting. The annual report of the association shows that 27 herds were under test and that a much better average of the herds' standings were made last year than in previous years. It was voted to cooperate with association No. 1, in publishing an annual report. R. L. Harrison and Wilson McNair represented No. 1 Association at the meeting.

Records in the county clerk's office at Fairfax show that 2,218 deeds were recorded last year, which was 87 less than the year before. 147 marriage licenses were issued last year, 1,067 county hunting licenses were issued, 350 State, 27 State non-resident hunting licenses and 14 fishing licenses.

A notice issued yesterday by Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kincheloe at Fairfax, calls notice to section 308 of the tax code of Virginia. This section requires taxpayers to meet the commissioner at the several voting precincts in their respective districts for the purpose of making returns of their income, intangible and tangible properties for the coming year. These returns must be completed by June 1, 1930. The failure on the part of a taxpayer to comply with this law will mean a penalty of 10 per cent of the amount of the tax on their property, with the minimum penalty of $2.

This change in the law was made for the convenience of the taxpayer, as it was impossible for the commissioner to find even 50 per cent of the people at home when he called. When the papers were left by him at the homes, they were often destroyed, which meant an arbitrary assessment and in most cases resulted in a large amount of dissatisfaction on the part of the taxpayer.

Commissioner Kincheloe has announced that he or his deputies will be at the following places in Centerville and Mount Vernon Districts at the time specified: At Bull Run, January 22; at Centerville, January 28; Clifton Station, January 24 and 25; Fairfax Station, January 27; Pender, January 28; Woodruffs Corner, January 29, and Pleasant Valley, January 30. These places are in Centerville District.

In Mount Vernon District he will be at N. B. Shepherd's store, January 27; Accotink, January 28; Ingleside, January 29; Mrs. Bartle's at Gum Springs, January 30, and Crockett's store, at Groveton, January 31.

Woman Run Down by Auto.

Alice Tams, 27 years old, of 1808 Belmont street northwest, suffered a cut over the right eye and the upper lip yesterday afternoon at Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest when she was struck and knocked down by an automobile operated by Jamts L. Johnson, 22 years old, of Massachusetts avenue near Ninth street northwest. She was taken in the same car to Garfield Hospital for treatment and dismissed.

STATE SEEKS STRIKE TRIAL VENUE CHANGE

PROSECUTION IS DIVIDED

Gastonia, N. C., Jan. 15 (A.P.).—Trial of five men charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, textile striker, was postponed today until tomorrow to permit the defense to prepare affidavits in support of a contention that a change of venue for the trial should not be granted.

The motion for a change of venue was lodged by State Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt immediately after arraignment of the five defendants who pleaded not guilty. Solicitor John G. Carpenter said when the men were arraigned he would ask for second degree murder verdicts.

Solicitor Carpenter did not join with the State attorney general, who is aiding in the prosecution at the request of Gov. O. Max Gardner, in asking the change of venue.

Fair Trial Thought Impossible.

Mr. Brummitt said there was ground for belief that "a fair and impartial trial in Gaston County was not possible."

Solicitor Carpenter, as soon as the attorney general had made his motion, declared, "I will not insult the people of my county by asking a change.

"This case can be fairly tried here, and as solicitor I am not making a motion for removal."

At the request of Lee Bulwinkle, head of defense counsel, Judge J. H. Clements, presiding, then postponed opening of the trial until tomorrow. Mr. Bulwinkle said the defense would submit affidavits tomorrow morning to support its contention that the trials should not be sent to another county.

Five Men Indicted.

The grand jury returned indictments against the five defendants this morning and arraignment followed shortly after court reconvened following the noon recess.

The men indicted are Horace Wheelus, Troy Jones, Lowry Davis, Fred Morrow and O. H. Lunsford. They are all mill workers.

The nine not indicted are Jack Carver, Theodore Sims, George Fowler, W. H. Holbrook, L. H. Thompson, E. F. Hancy, W. M. Boyters, Yates Garuble and L. M. Sossoman.

Mrs. Wiggins, a member of the Bessemer City local of the union, and other union members from that community were on their way to a union meeting here when a mob halted them.

Machine Turned Around.

Members of the mob ordered the driver of a truck which was conveying the union members to the meeting to turn his machine around and return to Bessemer City.

Witnesses at the preliminary hearing named the fourteen men held for grand jury action as members of the mob. They said the mob fired at the union members, who leaped from the truck and ran when it was wrecked.
